The amazing bald eagle

swoop ,dive ,caw! That is, the sound of the Bald eagles are amazing. They have so many cool facts including: Their beak is to help swallow things that they eat cool huh. I think bald eagles are so cool that I can share my Cool facts with your brain. I really think they're really cool facts, for real. The Bald eagle is a fascinating and unique animal with many interesting physical features that function to help this amazing animal survive in its environment.

The pair uses sticks and twigs to construct a platform nest. Some pairs return to the same nest year after year. Over time, an eagle's nest can be six feet across and six feet high. A mated eagle pair finds a nesting site and produces offspring each year. If one of the pair dies, the surviving bald eagle will look for a new mate in the next breeding season. Bald eagles are large, predatory Raptor Like Creatures that are recognizable for their brown body and wings, white head and tail, and hooked yellow beak. Their feet, which are also yellow, are equipped with sharp black talons. The nests of a bald eagle are really big; they actually weigh a ton Literally. The female bald eagle can be up to 3.5 feet long. Bald eagles have a very large wingspan of up to 8 feet. They are pretty large; they're about 36 inches Long. An adult bald eagle has brown feathers on most of its body. The bright white feathers on its head give the bird its "bald" look. The eyes of bald eagles are twice to eight times better than humans. Bald eagles have big Talons or claws that help them snatch their prey; they're about 1/2 inches Long. The adult male is about 90 cm (36 inches) long and has a wingspan of 2 metres (6.6 feet). Females, which grow somewhat larger than males, may reach 108 cm (43 inches) in length and have a wingspan of 2.5 metres (8 feet). Both sexes are dark brown, with a white head and tail. The beak, eyes, and feet are yellow. Nests are usually about 1.5 metres (5 feet) wide, but old nests can be almost twice this size. The two or three eggs laid within take slightly longer than a month to hatch. Bald eagles belong to the sea eagle group. This type of eagle uses its claws to snatch out of water. The bald eagle became the U.S. national bird in 1782. At that time, there were probably hundreds of thousands of bald eagles. By the mid-1900s hunters had killed many thousands of them. The birds usually build the nest atop a well large, isolated tree or high rock that is located within easy flight of water. Both parents share in the care and feeding of the young. The immature birds are brown with whitish tail and wing linings. The pure white head and tail feathers don't appear until the birds are four to five years old. Bald eagles are known all over North America actually only in North America Back then when They chose the Bald eagle as the Animal for North America there were a lot of bald eagles but then in like 1950 they started hunting them. Laws today help them survive in the wilderness without being hunted. I heard that the Greeks used the eagle for their country too hearing that the eagle was chosen by the Greeks too made the Americans feel cool. It's always great seeing an Eagle around like a bald eagle Or another bird like the osprey, Raven, owl, or even just seeing a bluejay or a robin is cool. They also noticed that bald eagles were only found in North America and that was very very very cool !!! The back was for North America The bald eagle's scientific name is Haliaeetus leucocephalus. Besides live fish, bald eagles also prey on other birds, small mammals, snakes, turtles, and crabs, and they readily eat carrion. Once an endangered species, the bald eagle (Haliaeetus leucocephalus) was removed from the Endangered Species Act list in 2007 after a successful recovery. bald eagle is actually a sea eagle (Haliaeetus species) that commonly occurs inland along rivers and large lakes. Nests are usually about 1.5 metres (5 feet) wide, but old nests can be almost twice this size. The two or three eggs laid within take slightly longer than a month to hatch.

The bald eagle is very fascinating And it has so many cool facts like how they build their nests and it's like a million pounds bro. I love the bald eagle and you should too because he's our state bird bra! Hee hee hee bye!!!
