

Aphrodite Bellarose

Aphrodite Bellerose is an agent of Lobotomy Corporation. While she tends to seem emotionless and uninterested in most things, Aphrodite is a very emotional and sensitive person. Fixated on love, beauty, and her own appearance, Aphrodite is one who tends to think more with her heart than with her head.

Appearance

Aphrodite has dark skin and ruby-pink hair. She has a prominent scar across her lip as a result of her father and it is often covered up. Her scleras are charred black as a result of Apocalypse Bird.

In LC, she is equipped with the suit, weapon, and gift of Laetitia as well as the gifts of Forsaken Murderer, Fragment of the Universe, Grave of Cherry Blossoms, and Bloodbath (not pictured).

Personality

Despite her usual blank and unemotive face, Aphrodite is a very emotional person. She is known to have bursts of strong emotion from time to time, especially when it comes to her captain whom she has quite the crush on. Whether that be feelings of infatuation or embarrassment at another confession gone wrong.

However when it comes down to it, Aphrodite can be very focused and determined. One of Control Team's two master marksmen, Aphrodite is quite masterful with Laetitia's EGO weapon and also trains herself in the art of self defence, in case her past actually does catch up to her.

Biography

Trigger Warning: Familial Abuse and Mentions of Scars

Background

Being the descendant of a prominent plastic surgeon and Ring member, Aphrodite comes from a place of wealth and privilege. However, it was not the life of luxury one might think as she was controlled and indoctrinated into a life of perfectionism and a lack of control. All culminating in her rejecting her suitor on her wedding day.

Early Life

Before Aphrodite was Aphrodite, her name was Venus Labelle. As a child, her family were obsessed with perfection especially when it came to how one physically looks. From a very young age, Aphrodite was told how to look, how to carry herself, and how to behave as the family’s “purest member”.

One thing the Labelle family hated was scars. Seen as the ultimate blemish to one’s physical being, anyone who’d gain scars through any means would have to hide and cover them and if they could not be covered, they would be treated as a burden by the rest of the family or even thrown to the outskirts.

This made Venus very self conscious. She was spoiled by her family for being the prettiest of all of her family members her age and as such was held at a much higher standard than them. Seen more as a porcelain doll for others to dress up rather than a real person.

Years later, Venus receives news that her father has chosen someone for her to marry. This brought Venus great discomfort as unlike the family, she saw as something that should be her choice and not as simply an obligation to hers. She had attempted to bring up how this arranged marriage had made uncomfortable, but her father brushed it off, saying that they couldn't have marrying someone ugly and that the man she was bound to was handed by him.

made Venus furious. The idea that even who she loved would not be her ce was the last straw. She would break free of her father's will by any ns necessary. The day of her wedding came. Bride's maids prepared her s and makeup, her hair was done with deft precision, she was dolled up head to toe. She walked down the aisle, her wedding veil elegantly ing in the wind and came before her husband to be. He was beautiful. Too tiful. Inhumanly beautiful. A beautiful that signified caring more for status outer appearance above all else. He held a bouquet of flowers out to s, and they were all perfect too. No signs of wilting nor of colorations. The of flaws... The uniformity of everything... The way this was all etermined... Everything about this wedding made Venus furious.

out thinking, she snatched the bouquet from her suitor's hand and set it t on some nearby candles as a signal of her defiance to her family. She let rn for a while before throwing the bouquet into the crowd and watching as flames engulfed her ex-suitor, her family, and the building around her as walked back down the aisle, headed for the door before she is stopped by ather. Without a word, he lunges at Venus with a cake knife and slashes at ace. Creating a scar across her lips. Her beauty had been blemished.

knew then that she had to flee from this life. She had enough. After ipping the clutches of her past, she changed her name to Aphrodite rose, changed her appearance entirely, covered the lower half of her face mask, and applied for a job as a clerk at Lobotomy Corp.

matter how much she tried, she could never truly get rid of that scar. A anent reminder of what her defiance has cost her.

Garret

Currently, Aphrodite works as an agent of LC. She works alongside Garret, Harvey, and Mayflower in the Control Team.

Apocalypse Bird Breach

Main article: Apocalypse Bird

Aphrodite was still a clerk during the Apocalypse Bird breach, as such she was completely helpless during the event. The blinding light from the abnormality's eyes had scarred her eyes. Charring her scleras black and temporarily blinding her. Had it not been for Garret, she may have died right then and there. Afterwards however, with a slot on the team now needing to be filled she was promoted.

Cupid

Cupid was one of the abnormalities Aphrodite was most qualified to work with. During attachment work, the abnormality attempted to win Aphrodite's affection by transforming into the one she loved most and proposing to her. However when Aphrodite rejected him, Cupid breached and did a massive amount of WHITE damage to her, causing her to fly into a rage against the abnormality. Aphrodite chased it down, stabbed it in the neck and gave it one final shot in the face, swiftly completing the suppression. While still in a dazed state, Garret reached out his arm to try and check if she was ok and in a split second, Aphrodite pulled him in and kissed him before being knocked unconscious by Harvey. From that day forward, Aphrodite was not allowed to work with Cupid and she believes it's for the best.

odite is revived in the Library with her fellow coworkers. It is there she acquires her personal EGO, dubbed Volcanic Rose Bride.

Relationships

odite does not express it often, but she takes her relationships very seriously. Whether that be romantic or platonic, Aphrodite will always remain loyal to those she cares about.

With Garret

After saving her life, Aphrodite has fallen head over heels for Garret. Over the years, as they've been working together, this love has only grown. However, Garret's obliviousness to her crush combined with Aphrodite's difficulty with expressing how she feels leads to frustration on her part on how to confess to him. However regardless of that, Garret's always looking out for her and Aphrodite appreciates this deeply.

With Harvey

Harvey being the more sensitive one of the team is someone Aphrodite finds it easy to confide in. Being one of the first people to learn of Aphrodite's feelings, he often helps out with her confession attempts and often shares in the excitement when they go awry.

With Mayflower

Aphrodite and Mayflower have a friendly rivalry of sorts. Both being the top marksmen in Control, some suppression become competitions between the two of them to see how many shots they can land. Outside of that, the two are good friends. With Mayflower's laid back nature helping Aphrodite to put s in perspective from time to time.
