

spectator: I hope the sadness will leave you spectator: like clouds spectator: that dissolve into rain spectator: flow into rivers spectator: travel

spectator: through deltas spectator: and end

spectator: in the sea

spectator: from where they evaporate back spectator: into clouds spectator: on the sky

spectator: covering

spectator: the sun

spectator: you told me spectator: how water circulates spectator: between the oceans spectator: the sky

spectator: and the mountains spectator: what about tears?

spectator: what about

spectator: the oceans

spectator: in spectator: us?

spectator: time is running spectator: running into the sea each of the spectators takes a deep breath in and a deep breath out every breath is a small wave on a big ocean crossing time and space the spectators continue to inhale deeply on each exhale comes a tone the spectators are humming they hum for as long or as short as they want in any tone they want as high or as low as they want the tones are resonating like waves on a big ocean waves that slowly calm down