My Background

In the summer of 2015, I moved to the states from ShenZhen, China at the age of ten. As a professionally trained moderator since elementary school, I was confident and excited for a new journey of dreams here in California. Yet, reality hit me like a bucket of ice water: I struggled with assimilating into a new environment in a new country, and I gradually lost my shine. My mom signed me up for Speech & Debate lessons, hoping to strengthen my oratory skills while retrieving the confidence I once possessed. After years of following the “How To Get Rid of My Chinese Accent” series on YouTube, I have obtained the ability to speak English fluently with a barely noticeable accent. I rediscovered my shine as a moderator, a debater, an entrepreneur, a political activist, and more --- all through public speaking.

My Nonprofit - Make a Statement

Make a Statement is a worldwide nonprofit that aims to educate youth and international students about public speaking and Speech & Debate. The lack of public speaking education in the school curriculum is evident, and we are here to change that. Since last summer, we have reached 25+ countries and 25+ states, with a total of 700+ students who have benefitted from our program. We hold free summer camps, workshops, webinars, and even free Speech & Debate tournaments. We strive to help every student who walks out of our program make a statement.
