

Meta-Majors

Meta-majors are groups of related majors with similar requirements, outcomes, or methodologies.

How do meta-majors help students?

Grouping majors into broad categories (meta-majors) helps guide student choice. Instead of being confronted with a list of over 200 degree and certificate programs to choose from, students can first choose one of the seven meta-majors based on their general interest. Then, as they start out their educational journey, they can have some time to explore the general interest area, be provided with “program maps,” which outline which courses to take semester by semester, and then make a more informed choice about their specific major.
