

Icebreakers

- Clay creations (make an animal, a school subject, a representation of yourself)
- Go find: something yellow, something meaningful to you, something that makes you laugh
 - (share out the items using speaking order)
 - Alternate items: something small, something that was handed down/inherited, something you created, something that was given to you as a gift, something that reminds you of a time in the past, something cool, something new, something you would save in a house fire, something you look at a lot
- Think of someone really important to you and draw the two of you (shared at end, or beginning of next TT)
- Shared doc favorites (movie, video, emoji, meme)
- That's me! (raise your hand if you... have a dog/cat/turtle/bird/fish/reptile)
- Two truths one lie
- Would you rather
- Blooket.com
- A race to find a specific item in their household (scavenger hunt)
- Finding things in common
- Kahoot!
- Skribbl.io
- Show and tell
- What's the most latine thing you've done? (ex: using the oven and dishwasher as storage)
- What animal scares you the most?
- Jamboards never have I ever
- Counting game - Facilitator sets a goal for a specific number you would like the group to get to ex. 15. Rules are that a number cannot be said twice, if two people say a number at the same time the group needs to start from 0.
- waffles vs. pancakes:
 - ☐ Step 1: Ask the first team member "Waffles or Pancakes."
 - ☐ Step 2: After giving their answer, ask them to replace one of those items with any other item. For example, "I get rid of waffles and nominate puppies."
 - ☐ Step 3: Then, the next person has to choose between Puppies and Pancakes.
 - ☐ Step 4: After that, they get to replace the current items such as, "I get rid of pancakes and nominate world peace."
 - ☐ Step 5: Repeat steps 1-4 until everyone has answered. The final answer will be the winner.
