

History of Rock and Roll!

Hi Students,

We have now completed 3 weeks of distance learning.

If you have not completed last week's work, make sure you get that to me ASAP!

Last week we began the "Counterculture" time period. This was when younger Americans began to clash with their parents and grandparents' generation over various issues: how to live, what to believe in, how to dress, how to act, etc. Ultimately this time period and the tension within it helped create some of the BEST rock and roll of the 20th Century in my opinion.

This week you will learn about Bob Dylan and Jimi Hendrix. Both had a great respect for each other's work and both changed the way musicians created rock and roll, and the way people appreciated rock and roll for generations to come.

A reminder that you will need to read through and complete the activities listed. These assignments and tasks will now count toward your grade/completion of credits for semester grades.

Feel free to email me if you have any questions.

I wish you the best and hope you continue to enjoy the learning activities for this class.

Rock on!
