

==You work in pairs. You choose one of the sentences below and tell your partner one thing you are going to do to prepare, before you start doing the thing in the chosen sentence. Your partner should try to guess which sentence below you are preparing for. If your partner is wrong, you give him/her another clue. When the partner guesses correctly, you switch roles and continue with a new sentence.

Example: A: I'm going to read my text book. I'm going to review grammar and vocabulary.

B: You are going to have an exam.

A: Correct!

1. You are going to go to a wedding.
2. You are going to clean your room.
3. You are going to stay up all night.
4. You are going to read a book.
5. You are going to go to a party.
6. You are going to have a baby.
7. You are going to go to work.
8. You are going to have a driving lesson.
9. You are going to write a report.
10. You are going to watch a movie.
11. You are going to play football.