

WPCTE Blog: Call for Proposals

WPCTE members, we need you!

We want to hear your voice and opinions on topics that are relevant to you through the WPCTE Blog! View the full guidelines here.

Here are a few ideas about posts we'd like to hear, but we want to hear from you about what you want more of:

- "I inspire a love of..." Complete this form to share how you inspire a love of reading, writing, and/or learning in your classroom! Responses may be shared in a collective blog post, or you may be contacted about writing more about your submission in a full-length blog post.
- Teaching during 2025:
  - How are you taking care of yourself?
  - How are you building communities in your classroom?
  - What role do parents play in your class this year and how are you building quality relationships with them?
  - How is your collaboration with your fellow teachers continuing or changing this year?
- WPCTE book club books--how will they inform your teaching?
- What does your culturally responsive classroom look like in 2025?
  - In what ways are you trying to learn or still trying to grow as a culturally-responsive teacher?
- What are some strategies you can use to work effectively with colleagues who are resisting change (online learning or social equity)?
- How do you promote equity for students with additional barriers (pandemic-related or otherwise)
- How do you inspire a love of reading, writing, or learning in your students?
- Pre-Service Teachers:
  - What is the current pedagogy that you are learning?
  - What are the best ideas that you have learned during your training?
  - How has the student teaching experience impacted your practice? (or anything related to student teaching)
  - Why have you decided to become a teacher during this time?
- Any general topics about ELA instruction

Submit your idea via the WPCTE Blog Pitch form and the WPCTE Blog Committee will be in touch!

We can't wait to hear your voice!
