QUESTIONS

1. How do you feel about your work? What adjectives would you use to describe your feelings toward your finished product?

2. What would you improve if you had more time?

3. What are you the most proud of?

I am most proud of the wood I chose. I like how the wood wound up cut. I like the smell of the wood. I am proud of how the dark wood turned out so pretty with the dark skyline. The wood was cut nicely and I am so proud of it. I was proud of my brother's reaction when I gave it to him. I hope that I can do it again and be proud of the next one.

4. What did you learn along the way? Describe any new skills or concepts you acquired.

I learned how to design a skyline on Inkscape. I learned what a vector line is, as I did not know before. I learned how to add the right amount of wood honey to give the wood the perfect shine. I added just enough to keep the wood looking new, but not soggy or damp. I learned what freshly burned wood smells like. I learned how to sand the inside of my wood, where the skyline was. These are the new skills that I learned and I hope to apply these more throughout my life.

5. What did you learn about yourself based upon U

Lthis experience?

6. What part was the hardest for you? Why?

7. What part was the easiest for you? Why?

8. Would you do something similar to this in your free time? Why or why not?

I would like to do something like this in my free time. It was really fun to make the whole time. It was something new to me and I like trying new things. I like the smell of the cut wood. I liked how the design came out. I enjoy making things, especially this skyline. I would love to do it again.

9. How could you build on this assignment or project in the future?

10. What are your next steps?
