Hello {firstname},

LinkedIn is a goldmine for prospectors. If you are in the b2b business, run an agency and want customers to give you large orders, then LinkedIn is the social network to hang out on.

Every professional is there and they are looking to connect with other professionals in their niche. Spend time engaging and interacting with your future clients on their LinkedIn profiles and they will remember you when they have a need for services that you provide.

It's that simple.

The problem is, it's also laborious. You'll need to work a lot to engage with those 100s of target customers every day. Any engagement you do with your prospects has to be absolutely organic and authentic. If you're fake or spammy, everybody will hate you.

It's a lot of hard work if you do it by yourself.

That's why now, there's an AI for it.
