

Article Development

Headline	Cant think of one yet
Hook - Standfirst	Interviewing the nation's favourite environmentalist, Sir David Attenborough, who has recently come out with a 3rd continuation of the infamous Planet Earth series on BBC iplayer. The series has once again attracted a large audience, even outside the UK, and we're here to question the biologist and broadcaster behind its success.
Background - Context	David Attenborough has travelled around the globe to show off the hidden beauties of planet earth; however in this interview, we want to focus on the biologist himself - and what he likes to get up to in his free time, other than leaving viewers astounded by the aesthetics of earth. Sir Attenborough has been a part of the BBC since 1952, and 2 years later started his Zoo Quest series, which has taken him all over the world and was his rise to fame and being everyone's classic, favourite broadcaster. However, the main stars of the show are his films and series such as Life on Earth, The Living Planet and The Trials Of Life - which has won nearly every major award in television.
Interview	What do you do when you're not scouring the globe? "Reading certainly has to be one of my favourite hobbies." Which book is a personal favourite? "Cliche, but Charles Darwin's On the Origin Of Species"

Article Development

--	--

Article Development