

Patricia L. Sitlington Research in Transition Award Rating Scale

This award is presented to an individual who has contributed to more positive outcomes for transition-aged youth and to the field of transition through a body of research in transition. The award is named in honor of Patricia Sitlington, a DCDT past-president who has contributed significantly to knowledge in the field through research.

Component	Notes	Points
Individual has contributed a significant body of research in transition.		/10
Individual has shared research in publications, and at conferences and other professional events.		/10
Individual's research has had significant and lasting impact on career development and transition services for individuals with disabilities.		/10
Individual's research aligns with mission of DCDT.		/10

Other factors		/10
Total		/50