

I apologize dearly to anyone who wants to read this,

But this is an old document and many of the things that were included within are either not relevant, or were the result of unwarranted drama.

There are still things I/we believed in, but as the author, I have decided to lock it and reserve a copy in case it is needed.

Thank you for your support when I did write it, and the stress and anxiety I had over publishing it and burning many bridges.

- Felicity