About the Conference

The FOSS4G-Europe Conference will be held in Guimarães, Portugal, from July 17 to 19th, 2018. Two days for workshops are scheduled. On 16th, just before the conference and on 20th, after the conference. We also support a code sprint for two days, 20 and 21th of July.

The Conference aims to bring together the European FOSS4G community. It is not an academic neither a business event. It is a community event, to support face to face meetings and discussions, to foster interactions, to share knowledge and passion.

Organizing Team

The Conference is organized by Portugal OSGeo Chapter, on behalf of the Europe OSGeo Chapter.

The local chapter is a legal non profit organization in Portugal (OSGeoPT), and has a history and experience of holding events over the last 8 years.

Sponsorship Categories

Joining FOSS4G Europe is to join an active, lively and willing community to do more and better. Geographic Information Systems continue to be a growing market, integrating with other technologies such as web servers applications, relational databases, documentary and process management, among other many others.

This conference is an excellent marketing opportunity to contact potential clients with an interest already recognized in free and open source technologies, being thus also an opportunity to demonstrate products, projects and services based on free and open source software, both in the specific area of geomatics and in ICT sector.

All sponsors will be entitled to, at least one free ticket for the B2B session, which provides a networking opportunity for companies and organizations doing business in the free and open source world. Additional tickets can be bought for a 50€ fee.

Furthermore, silver, gold and platinum sponsors are entitled to a time slot in a private space, which they can use for meeting their customers, partners or for whatever purpose they determine (Customer meeting).
