

Minimalist Scandinavian Bathroom Design with Dekton Slabs

It is easy to see why Montreal-based TV personality Marina Bastarache and her partner Lou Pascal chose Dekton for their kitchen and bathroom renovation. Bringing dreams to reality - an important perk that the Dekton slab gives every architectural surface and design.

In the first part of this series, Marina already took us through her kitchen design journey with Dekton Elena's tranquil and cloudlike appearance, a surface that made her feel Zen and calm while maintaining functionality and quality. Read about Marina's bathroom design experience with the magnificent Dekton slabs.

Marina's Ideal Minimalist Bathroom Design

A beautiful bathroom with an utterly elegant, simple, and minimalist design was Marina's dream of an ideal bathroom. She wanted to give the bathroom a revamped look without a luxurious marble look while retaining its functionality and beauty, a classic Scandinavian design.

For Marina, the bathroom is a surreal space where she can relax and feel connected to nature. Therefore, she took her time and made thorough plans for it. In fact, it was one of the last places she renovated, and she needed to look a bit extra, just like the other rooms.

Why Did Marina Chose Dekton Slabs for Her Bathroom

"...we wanted a bathroom that would be a little extra but wouldn't steal the show from the open space. It needed to fit with the rest; therefore, minimalist, Scandinavian, linear, earthy tones were chosen..."

Marina wanted a Scandinavian minimalist look for every part of the whole house. However, she also wanted it to have a linear design with earthy tones that could match the already available elegant glass shower on every surface of her bathroom.

The star host and her husband couldn't look any further, especially since Dekton gave their kitchen the best look they could ever imagine. Therefore, choosing Dekton for her surfaces was probably their easiest decision. The absolute beauty and stain resistance abilities of Dekton slabs make them easy to wash and maintain. "It is easy to wash, does not stain, and it is just so beautiful to look at." - she added.

What Makes Marina's Bathroom Design Unique

The success and uniqueness of Marina's bathroom design were simply a result of hard work, careful planning, and the use of quality materials from Cosentino's Dekton. Dekton slabs are made from hot compressed porcelain, quartz, glass, and solid minerals, making them suitable for a wide range of applications for architectural surfaces and designs.

At the end of the day, she got an astonishing minimalist design that blended perfectly with the elegance of the other rooms in her house, thanks to Dekton. Apart from their stunning appearance, they have heat, UV rays, and scratch-resistant abilities, making them suitable for indoor and outdoor use.

An Elegant Design that Blends with Nature

From the wide range of Dekton's high-quality innovative slabs, Marina and Lou chose the Dekton Rem because, according to her, "It is a very subtle design - beige in the background with little veins here and there with earthy tones." Truly, Rem made a perfect representation of Dekton's good work on their bathroom surfaces.

Dekton Rem is a Calacatta Lincoln-inspired white marble, one of Dekton's most remarkable slabs with intricate design. It features a striking balance between the graining combined with the brown and grey veining that's just perfect for bringing out the earthy tones. The Rem also has some golden hints, giving the bathroom surfaces a touch of magnificence.

The synchronicity of Rem's veins and grains is one of its important benefits for architectural design. It brings forth a surface that enhances comfort and relaxation while feeling connected to the serenity of nature. Dekton's Rem helps you feel refreshed and relaxed, especially while bathing.
