How to Paint Wooden Name Signs of Your Own Style

More often, the wooden painted name signs will be a wonderful choice for present. Although, there are many of them available in the stores, it will add more meaning and personality if you make it all by yourself. Nowadays, it is becoming very popular for parents to make wooden name signs for the little babies. If you are interested in painting, you may have a try. The following guide will give you some help.

Firstly, you are required to find a table and you should also do some preparations for the work you are going to do. The table you choose should be large enough for you to put all the tools and materials. And it should also be cleaned beforehand so that the material will not be made dirty. You may also need to find some clean cloth or newspaper and then put them on the table. You may also need to prepare some necessary tools include disposable foam brush and gloves. And you may also need to select a wooden stencil.

Secondly, you should do some basic thing for better preparation. You should buy shellac-based primer which can be available at the local stores. And then, put some of them on the wood to seal it. It may take you some time to wait for it to become dry. After the wood completely become dry, you may use the sandpaper to make the wooden sign sanded. After that, you may use a clean cloth to make the sign clean.

The last but not the least, you should paint the sign twice and try to make it perfect. You should paint the sign with the color you like and repeat for a second time so that it will create a better result. Then, you may make stenciling letters on the paper and then do it on the wood with the help of these stenciling letters. You must be careful not to make the wet paint be smudged.
