

Dear Princess Celestia and Luna,

I hope you receive this message in one piece (seeing as we gave it to a flamingo to get it to you). On Saturday, April 14th 2012, Over 18 of your faithful subjects got together in Fillydelphia for shenanigans and all around pony fun! You gave us a beautiful day for a trip to the zoo! Because of traffic, some ponies had been delayed from our original meeting time. So like the bearer of loyalty, we stuck around the meeting place a few minutes longer to wait for them to arrive. Once everypony arrived, we first decided to get something to eat before our epic journey. We found a type of stand that is commonly used by the bearer of the element of honesty. But we suspect her food is much better. Your element of Kindness bearer would have been overjoyed at all the different sorts of animals all over. They had everything from Rhinos to Turtles... (pardon? It's a what? Oh, really?) I've just been told that they were tortoises. And it has been confirmed, that Otters do not fly, still not sure about seals though.

Laughter could be heard everywhere we trotted. So much in fact that your bearer of laughter probably heard us all the way in Ponyville! One of your subjects even came dressed up in a costume that she herself had made! It sure would have made your bearer of generosity excited over the fashion statement she made around the zoo!

Some of us came to the zoo with people that they knew and some of us came alone. But like the lessons of your personal student and the bearer of magic has been learning... we all left as friends!

Signed,
Your faithful Philly Bronies
