

APP NAME: Socrative

	3	2	1
Engagement	The app engages the student by connecting with their interests and challenging them.	The app may relate to the students interests or challenge them, but not both.	The app doesn't relate to the students and doesn't challenge them.
Relevance	The app allows the student to combine their content knowledge with creative abilities in order to display their learning.	The app focuses on either content knowledge or creative abilities, but not both.	The app doesn't use content knowledge and it doesn't require students to be creative.
Feedback	The app provides feedback beyond right/wrong. It gives an explanation and an opportunity for the student to rework the problem.	The app tells the student if they were right or wrong, but it doesn't provide an explanation.	The app doesn't tell students if they are right or wrong.
Student Usability	The app allows for students to independently work through the app. There is also a troubleshooting feature that helps with usability in general. The student login process is easy to navigate and is quick.	The app allows for students to work independently, but there are a couple flaws that require teacher attention. The student login process is easy to navigate or is a quick process, but not both.	The app has numerous flaws that impede student usability. Student login process is difficult to navigate and/or takes a long time.
Teacher Accessibility	The app allows for teacher control when necessary. The teacher can access all student content and can add their own content into the app.	The app allows for teacher control or adding teacher content, but not both.	The app doesn't allow for teacher control and no additional teacher content can be added into the app.
Student Security	The app both protects student data and it is easy for the teacher to find the safety measures in place.	The app protects student data or it is easy for the teacher to find the safety measures in place, but not both.	The app doesn't protect student data and it is hard for the teacher to find the safety measures in place.

