The Job Search Process Can Be Daunting

- Many jobs are filled before they are ever publicly posted
- AI and technology are making the job search process more dehumanizing
- Figuring out if you want to work for a company is difficult to discern through marketing materials
- Exploring a career change is almost impossible without talking to someone in the field or function you are curious about

What's the Answer? Networking!

- The only way to not simply become just another dataset is to cultivate human connection
- Meeting people is valuable on multiple levels
 - You get an insider take on the industry, the company, the function, the job
 - You get to learn from another leader's experience

- You're building a relationship that can have long-lasting positive impact for both of you
 - Over time, your network's network becomes a part of your network
 - You'll have a better chance of jumping the line when new opportunities come up
 - Humans are social by nature. Relationships help you feel less alone and more supported
 - Even if you meet someone who doesn't resonate, you can still learn from that conversation

The Network Like a Pro: 4-Week Intensive

Join me and a small group of like-minded leaders who want to kickstart their networking.

In 4 weeks, I'll teach you how to:

- Reset Your Mindset: See networking as a valuable, low-stress, worthwhile activity
- Move Forward: Overcome your fears and procrastination
- Build Your List: Create a robust list of who you want to reach out to and why
- Use Simple Systems: Process & templates for tracking, outreach, and ongoing relationship building
- Be Accountable: Stay on track to sustainably network for the long-term
- Celebrate: Acknowledge your progress every day, every week
- Have Fun: Work alongside a great group of people learning and doing it together

You'll walk away having done the work to:

- Discover your next career move
- Level up your relationship-building skills
- Connect in a high-value + low-stress way

- Overcome your fears and procrastination around networking
 - Strengthen your network by connecting with people who inspire you

This is For You if You

- Know that networking matters, but can't seem to prioritize doing it
 - Need someone to help take out the guesswork with a step-by-step guide
 - "Networking" feels like a dirty word but you know you need to do it
 - Want to explore your next career step, but aren't sure where to start
 - Started to network but struggled to get into a rhythm or sustain your momentum
 - Benefit from having accountability partners and others to learn from and with
 - Don't want to wait any longer and have decided this is the year

This is NOT For You if You

- Aren't ready to prioritize networking in your life
 - Don't believe that networking will be a good use of your time
 - Don't like working with others to learn and strengthen your skills
 - Won't be able to show up consistently to our meetings
 - Will have trouble following through on the homework

Here's What You'll Get

- 4 weeks of in-depth sessions where I teach you how to network effectively and with ease. These will be recorded for your reference.
- Q&A and access to me via Slack to give you feedback and support
- Templates that are proven for outreach, follow-up, and meeting agendas
- Tracking spreadsheets

- A guide on how to build your outreach list
- Accountability partner to help you stay on track
- A supportive group of like-minded leaders who are on the same path

Bonus

- I will stay on an extra 30 min after every session to offer additional live coaching and workshoping to answer your specific questions

Who is Kathy Wu Brady

I'm an Executive & Leadership Coach & Advisor and writer of the Lead without Limits newsletter, helping ambitious, heart-led leaders maximize their impact and build their dream careers.

As a leader who has served 2x as CEO, 2x as COO, launched 3 businesses, and transformed 5 organizations, I am motivated to share my learnings and help my clients grow and reach their full potential.

After 25 years of navigating multiple career changes, I've found that cultivating a strong network is the key. Learning how to do this and sustaining your practice does not have to be hard. You just need the right tools and the right guide.

What My Clients Say About Working With Me

"Kathy provided excellent counsel while I was pursuing a career change in my organization. She gave detailed and impactful advice on the interview process, quickly sizing up the opportunity and how to articulate my vision and passion for the position. Our conversations gave me confidence and allowed me to present my best self. Speaking with Kathy is like having a CEO at your fingertips--she understands how to navigate organizations and find career success. I would highly recommend Kathy to anyone looking to elevate their career."

– A. Kish

“Kathy has been a transformative mentor. Her empathy, active listening, and ability to ask the right questions and provide insightful advice have profoundly impacted my career and personal growth. With her extensive professional experience, she truly understands the challenges you share. I wholeheartedly recommend her.”

– B. Guillen, Executive Director, The Resource Foundation

“Working with Kathy has been a transformative experience...she consistently helps me navigate complex situations, providing actionable steps that empower my success... her guidance is rooted in practical application rather than theory. As I continue my journey with Kathy, I have no intention of ending this collaboration. The invaluable skills and insights I gain from her will undoubtedly continue to support me as I progress in my career. I highly encourage anyone considering working with Kathy to take the leap: it’s an investment that will be well worth it.
