Disclaimer:

This content is created by One Down in collaboration with the Recording Academy as part of the “We Are Golden” AAPI Heritage Month campaign. It is intended for educational and cultural storytelling purposes only.

All images, artist likenesses, and music references are used under the principles of fair use as non-commercial commentary on historical and cultural impact. We do not claim ownership of any copyrighted materials featured.

Wherever possible, credit has been provided to original sources, rights holders, and archives. If you are a rights holder and believe any material has been used inappropriately, please contact us directly for review.

This post is not meant to be exhaustive. We recognize and deeply respect the countless Filipino artists, past and present, who have also shaped American music in ways both seen and unseen.

This is one thread in a much larger story — and we welcome continued conversations, additions, and reflections from the community.

This project is part of a broader mission to honor the contributions of AAPI artists in shaping American music and to celebrate the richness of our collective cultural legacy.
