Honorable Mentions:

Notes: These may or may not be considered skins. They have been disqualified due to the possibility of the “skin” only being in-game armor, video editing, or not appearing on a real player character.

1. Sewer Cat Jellie:

Taking place in Season 7, as an escalation of Grian’s earlier-in-the-season shenanigans of making and hiding secret bases for himself within the bases of the other hermits; a group was formed by him, Impulse, Scar, and Bdubs, called the Sewer Cats; Who were set out on causing as much chaos as possible while hiding within Keralis’ city mega base.

They did this by relocating parts of the city’s infrastructure into their secret sewer, vandalizing some iconography, and by just generally messing with Keralis and Cleo (who was helping Keralis at the time due to the HCBBS) via pranks. As a part of the group and mostly seen during meetings, Bdubs dons a Jellie head he used earlier in the season, as seen in MASSIVE Aque Town Upgrades! :: Hermitcraft #47.

2. Grian w/ Bdubs Smiling Head:

This head and the notable role it would go on to serve [in Season 7] originates from Hermitcraft 7: Episode 45 - THE SECRET BASE, where Grian gets multiple of them in order to be used as disguises by the Mycelium Resistance's members, and puts one to use for himself.

The reason why its specifically heads of Bdubs that were used, is possibly due to him being a part of the Hermitcraft Environmental Protection [Agency], which the Resistance was actively fighting against; and so it acts as a means of defacing him throughout their resistance activity.

They're seen again in the next episode; Hermitcraft 7: Episode 46 - GRIAN VS 1 SUGARCANE, where Grian and Impulse used them while spying on a H.E.P. meeting. The heads once again reappear in Hermitcraft 7: Episode 48 - BUYING THE THRONE, with other resistance members wearing the Bdubs heads (alongside ones that look similar), and are worn while working on their mission of turning the diamond throne from the town hall into one made out of Mycelium.

Overall though, the Bdubs head(s) is probably most well-known from its appearance in Hermitcraft 7: Episode 51: THE HEP HEIST. Where at the start, Grian is obsessively distraught over the fact that he happened to lose his Bdubs head, and goes on quest to kill Bdubs in order to claim a new head of his to wear; then Grian uses it while carrying out the titular heist of the episode with Etho.

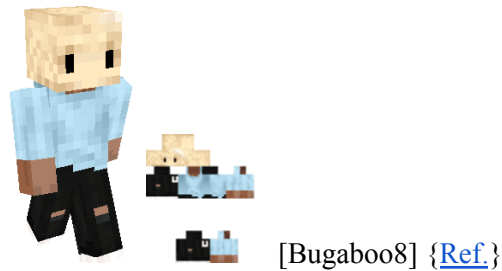

After this episode though, the head was [seemingly] never seen from or worn by Grian again, probably due to their secret base being found by HEP. The love and obsession Grian displays for the Bdubs head is probably what inspired him making/having his spook-ified skin be him with Bdubs' facial features later on. This is also the closest Grian has to any Mycelium Resistance-themed skin.

It's currently unknown if Bdubs himself ever saw or reacted to the resistance doing all of this.

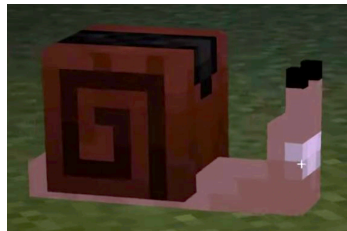

3. Bald Grian Head:

In the beginning of Hermitcraft 7: Episode 76 - ALMOST FINISHED! Grian swapped skins with Bdubs for a charity event, and so wears his own [bald] head to be more recognizable. He switched back to skin standard skin self shortly into the episode.

4. Bdubsnail (Bdub's Wild Life Snail):

In Bdubs Wild Life :: The Worst Day of My Life, each member of the SMP is slowly followed by a snail that is textured after their original skin. Bdubs' snail adapted his smile and mohawk.
