

No Education Is In Vain

I was walking all by myself in that dark and dense forest. Suddenly I turned around and saw that there were two boys in the forest besides me. They were standing behind the tree as much as possible. I didn't care. I thought that on this beautiful afternoon, like me, they also went out for a walk and entered the forest while walking. I walked for a little longer. I saw that it was getting darker. After a while the sun will set. I suddenly remembered that I've to do my studies. Moreover, my mother gave me a strict order to come back home before evening. So I made my way back without any delay.

As soon as I didn't take a few steps the two boys came towards me quickly but calmly and blocked my way. I kept my head cool even after I was shocked. I asked "Want to say something?". As soon as they came closer to me in a strange way, I realised that there must be some bad intention. It was clearer in their behaviour. So when I was going to run without waiting, someone was trying to hold my wrist and I was trying to run with all my strength. His bad work partner also tried to stop me and keep my mouth shut. Although I couldn't close my mouth. I was trying so hard to get free and run away from them. But I was looking for a way out of the danger at the same time instead of my head. The first thing that came to my mind was the phone was in my pocket but it was not possible to use it then because my two hands were busy removing the hands of those boys from my wrist. The second was to shout. But the road was far away. My voice was likely to reach people.

Though I was shouting as loud as I could. I suddenly kicked the boy holding my wrist very hard with my foot and he couldn't control the rhythm and went to the ground. On this chance, I punched in the style of martial arts with all the strength of my body of the other boy's chest with one hand which was free at that time. He was in pain. As soon as his pressure on my hand relaxed a little, I pushed him away. Although all of this happened in just a few seconds, I felt like it had been a few hours. By then the first boy had tried to catch me again but he couldn't do it at that time. I dodged and started running. I saw no one coming after me. Even after that I didn't slow down.

Ten minutes later I made it to the main road. The Maghrib Azan could be heard from a distant mosque. I thought as I walked down the sidewalk-" Once upon a time I didn't want to go to martial arts classes just to play computer games, spend my time lazily. I used to think life isn't like action movies. I didn't think that I'll need to use it also. But today I've survived by adopting that strategy". In fact, everyone should learn this kind of strategy. It's hard to say when someone will need it just like me.

After all this I learned an important thing-" No education is in vain. It comes in handy once or twice. So, we shouldn't neglect any education ".
