@Teekz1e

Who am I

- Reversal trader, looking for reversals all the time on smaller frames having charts open 70% of the time markets are open.
- Definitely detail oriented, looking for every single move market makes. That usually means I exit positions way too fast to get bigger gains.
- Mind changing is my thing, seen multiple times when I was in a trade, something happened in the market, bears stepped in and I quickly got out of position, even though we were still in a bullish trend and I could easily get more profit if I held for a longer period of time.
- Active trader, as I mentioned before I sit behind charts almost all day
- My goto time zones are 5 min, 15 min, 30 min and 1H. I am definitely a scalper.

Risk Profile

- Risk tolerant definitely, I have a decent paying job, but cannot afford to lose it all. Risk management is my weakest point 100%. I just started using stop loss to limit my losses, but I got to play with it more for sure. Usually my stop loss is way too small and I get put out of a trade almost instantly.

Asset Class

- Options and Futures in my opinion are my styles. Recently joined Professor Michaels Crypto Campus. Just to expand my knowledge and styles of investors and traders.

As of right now, it would be safe to say I am still a newbie. More than doubled my portfolio in the last 2,5 weeks. Most of them were trades you recommended. Still did my charting, important zones, but never backtested.