

Hi folks! We have big news: we're launching a Patreon!

Why we're doing this:

The trajectory of Infloresce Records, as things stood at the end of 2024, was unsustainable. We foresaw that the label was growing past our ability to tend to it without compromising our wellbeing and principles.

After talking to folks, including other creatives, label runners, and members of our collective, we've decided to make some changes:

- Infloresce Records will no longer be taking a percentage of our artists' album sales. We'll be stepping back from the business and logistical side of the label in order to focus on being creative and nurture our community.
- We'll still be releasing albums and hosting community events as usual. We'll continue to offer creative support to our artists and distribute releases on our Bandcamp page.
- In order to fund our album projects and labor-intensive community events like Snowdrop Festival, we're turning to the support of folks who like what we do! What our Patrons can expect in return is to have access to our library of resources; exclusive tracks; name credit; journal posts; and access to a monthly live Q&A where Aivi, Miles, and other Infloresce members will answer your questions on stream.

To celebrate the launch of our Patreon, miles morkri and aivi have released an exclusive collaboration called "sertraline". The Infloresce collective has also put together an incredible resource bundle of sheet music, stems, samples, liner notes, and tracker modules. These are all available for download today for folks who become Patrons.

Thank you for your generous support over the years. We hope Infloresce can keep its doors open for many more years to come!