Remus who was lying on the couch as he listened to both Peter, and James argue over something ridiculous as he ends up sighing softly to himself. 'Man why does summer have to be boring, I swear school's more fun-' He had stopped thinking to himself, due to him groaning softly as he felt someone on top of him as he opened his eyes as he had them closed while he looked to see James on top of him. "Really you two I swear you act more childish here then you both do at school." He watches as both of them start to argue but he kept his mouth shut while he tried not to laugh, as he watched James mom yelling at both the boys making him smile a bit.
