ABSTRACT

The Abstract should be no more than 250 words, with 3-5 key words. It should not be descriptive, but should contain only important facts raised from the manuscript. The abstract should be written into a single paragraph that briefly summarises each main section of introduction, methods, results and conclusion of your paper.

Introduction

Introduction represents a short description of the problem described in the manuscript and the purpose of the study. There is a need to mention only the references in direct relationship with a problem presented in the manuscript. Continue logically and finish the section with a short description of the aim of the study. (Note: OAIJSS does not use a separate "Literature Review" section for Original Research, Meta-analysis, or Systematic Literature Review articles. All relevant background literature must be integrated into the Introduction).

Methods

Methods should present concisely and systematically a list of summarized data sources, including years searched. Include in the search the most current information possible, ideally conducting the search several months before the date of manuscript submission. Potential sources include computerized databases and published indexes, registries, abstract booklets, conference proceedings, references identified from bibliographies of pertinent articles and books, experts or research institutions active in the field, and companies or manufacturers of tests or agents being reviewed.

Describe inclusion and exclusion criteria used to select studies for detailed review from among studies identified as relevant to the topic. Under details of selection include particular populations, interventions, outcomes, or methodological designs. Specify the method used to apply these criteria (for example, blinded review, consensus, multiple reviewers). State the proportion of initially identified studies that met selection criteria.

Describe guidelines used for abstracting data and assessing data quality and validity. State the method by which the guidelines were applied. Authors should report systematic reviews and meta-analyses in accordance with the PRISMA (Preferred Reporting Items for Systematic Reviews and Meta-Analyses) statement.

Results and Discussion

State the main results of the review/research, whether qualitative or quantitative, and outline the methods used to obtain these results. For meta-analyses, state the major outcomes that were pooled and include odds ratios or effect sizes and, if possible, sensitivity analyses. Accompany numerical results by confidence intervals, if applicable, and exact levels of statistical significance.

State the major identified sources of variation between studies, including differences in treatment protocols, protocols, co-interventions, confounders, outcome measures, length of follow-up, and dropout rates.

Tables, Figures, and Illustrations

Illustrations should be kept to a minimum. Data reported in tables or figures should not be repeated in the text. We accept up to five tables/figures. Each table/figure/illustration should be presented on a separate page in the smallest format possible and contain: a) descriptive or explanatory title; b) respective number (using Arabic, not roman numerals) consecutively as cited in the text; c) all the necessary explanations of symbols and abbreviations.

- Tables: Table title should be placed above the table. Use the MS Word table tool. Abbreviations may be used but must be explained in full as footnotes. Mark the footnotes using the following symbols, in this sequence: *, †, ‡, §, ||, ¶, , ††, ‡‡, ...
- Figures: The title should be placed below the figure. Illustrations must be delivered in high-quality electronic format, labelled with the number and author name.

Conclusion

Conclusions should be stated in a short, clear, and simple manner, stemming directly from the results shown in the paper. Rather than summarizing the data, conclude from them.

References

All references mentioned in the text must be cited using superscript numbers (e.g., ¹, ^{2,3} or ⁴⁻⁷) placed after punctuation marks. The reference list must be formatted in the Vancouver style, numbered consecutively in the order they are first mentioned in the text.

Author Listing Rule: List the first three (3) authors followed by "et al." if there are more than three authors.

Journal Articles:

1. Author AA, Author BB, Author CC, et al. Title of the article. Abbreviated Journal Title. Year;Volume(Issue):Page-Page. (Example: 1. Smith J, Doe J, Brown A, et al. The impact of social dynamics. Open Access Indones J Soc Sci. 2023;6(2):100-110.)

Books and Book Chapters:

2. Author AA, Author BB. Book Title. Edition. Publication place: Publisher; Year. 3. Author AA, Author BB, Author CC. Title of the chapter. In: Editor AA, Editor BB, eds. Book Title. Edition. Publication place: Publisher; Year:Page-Page.

Unpublished work, submitted work, personal communication:

4. Author AA, Author BB. Title of Unpublished Work. Journal Title, phrase indicating stage of publication. 5. Author AA (University, City, Country), Author BB (Institute, City, Country). Year. Personal communication.

Conference Proceedings:

5. Author AA, Author BB, Author CC. Title of Presentation. In: Title of the Collected Work. Paper presented at: Name of the Conference; Date of Conference; Location of Conference. Publication place: Publisher; Year.

Thesis:

6. Author AA. Title of Thesis [Level of Thesis]. City: Degree-Granting University; Year.
