

TEExES Testing Sequencing and Policy

All students pursuing degree programs leading to initial teacher or professional certification are required to demonstrate certification test readiness before approval will be granted to sit for any state examination. Practice Exams and test resources are available through the TExES Prep Center. More information on test preparation resources, practice tests, exam fees, and the full testing policy may be accessed via the TExES Prep Center webpage.

Undergraduate Certification Courses

EDUC 3003/3482 *ECE 3223/4203

In these courses, students will be familiarized with the testing requirements of the certification area in which they are seeking. It is advised that once students begin these courses, they begin constructing a testing timeline to outline the anticipated tests and timeline in which exams will be scheduled. Specifically, it is advised that students begin preparing and registering for their Content and Science of Teaching Reading Exam (STR), if applicable.

If you reach the limit of your practice exams, please speak to an Office of Educator Preparation Services advisor for further instructions.

EDUC 4113/4243

In these courses, it is recommended that students prepare and register to take the PPR and any additional supplemental exams during these courses.

If you reach the limit of your practice exams, please speak to an Office of Educator Preparation Services advisor for further instructions.
