

Task: What previous research projects have taken place that are relevant to thinking about and working on the COVID 19 emerging crisis? Where is the data? What formats are available? Where are they? What access do we have?

Potential Previous Research Areas/Topics that are Relevant:

- Informal economy
 - Markets - Gikomba traders – not enough
 - Rural economies – how small-scale farmers/businesses/communities are affected
- Informal settlements
 - WASH
 - (Measures by gov't have been about comfortable life – hand sanitizers, etc. Access to water is a problem in many of these parts... not about hand sanitizer...)
- Schools/edtech
 - What does virtual education look like?
 - Online learning – not an area so developed. What opportunities are emerging from having this? How are teachers coping and students?
 - Edtech research
- Mobility infrastructure
 - Does Railway museum have any data on movement of people, past and present?
- Nairobi culture
 - Dynamics that shape our livelihoods.
 - Looking at culture that emerge in Nairobi such as genge, sheng, mababi
 - Dynamics of livelihood based on societal needs that attract people such as makongeni, Jericho, buruburu, kileleshwa, karen, runda, westlands
- Pharmaceutical supply chains
- Ebola Research
 - How did countries manage ebola? What systems did they put in place? Lots of research and actual data from ebola. How healthcare systems can handle pandemic even their current structures right now?
- Health Communication Research
 - Doctor-patient communication – what barriers/opportunities exist in our socio-cultural context?
 - Sharing public health information – how is public health information prioritised in the news agenda/ communicated/? Who communicates it and how (media, public officials, etc)?
 - Communicating public health information to children
 - How to enhance public's trust to ensure measures put in place are utilised?
