Summary:

[MANBAHAREM]

At a certain city, at a certain district, lies a big mansion owned by Kunihiro family. Also acting as a small orphanage, the master, Yamanbagiri Kunihiro, lives peacefully with his loyal servants - which happens to be his lovers.

In the world filled with discrimination, he strives to create a paradise for hybrids. At least that's what people said.

What can the new servant, Kogitsunemaru - a hybrid - finds in the middle of that miniature eden? Just what can go wrong in such a happy place?

Manbaharem and fluffiness are life. All hail Manba-chan Maji Tenshi!

On a serious note, thanks for the organizers to make this come true. Many thanks to my artists, beta-reader, and helpers at the very end! Without all of you, this might not become reality. I am sorry for causing such trouble because of this fanfic's length.

Dear readers, I hope you enjoy this very self-indulgent fic, as well as loving manbaharem!

Mae [Beta-reader]

Don't underestimate the sheer willpower it takes to edit stories. That and how much coffee is necessary to do it.

Thanks for having me! Remember: as long as you stay fluffy, everything will work out in the end.

This was my first time participating in this type of thing, so I was a little unsure of what to do at times, but nonetheless I think this whole project turned out pretty great! I'm glad I got to draw my starter sword and my best boy together (LOL). Backgrounds sure are difficult (-ω-).
