

What are pathways?

Pathways are agreements between Algonquin College and other postsecondary institutions that facilitate recognition of prior postsecondary study and transfer credit or admission to upper levels of study. As a result, it may take you less time to complete your credential or, result in a reduced course load. This means that you may enter the job market sooner and potentially save time and money.

Are pathways available for every program?

Pathways exist for many Algonquin College programs. Typical admissions requirements stipulate minimum GPA, check out the requirements for each agreement on our agreements page.

Where can I study?

Algonquin College maintains agreements with postsecondary institutions locally, provincially, nationally, and internationally. In some cases you can even complete your degree online.

Where do I begin to apply for Degree Pathways?

Visit www.ontransfer.ca as well as articulation agreements for Algonquin College to determine which is the best Degree Pathway for you. Once you have decided, review the agreement to find out what is required from you. Note that agreements and information are subject to change, so review your agreement on a regular basis.

I require course outlines to complete my credit transfer request at another institution, is there a way to request course outlines?

You can download course outlines for most courses completed on campus after 2003 by completing the Course Outline Viewer Request Form. Courses completed online can be requested by contacting the Online Learning department at online@algonquincollege.com.

Do I need my high school grades to follow a pathway?

Please check the admission requirements for your institutions of interest for a specific program before you apply. In some cases institutions may require the completion of specific high school courses. Options for completing these courses exist, please contact us for more information.

I want to attend an institution that Algonquin does not appear to have an agreement with, can I still apply?

Yes, you can! Provided that you meet an institution's admissions requirements you can apply to any institution. Please note that your courses would be assessed for credit on a case-by-case basis. You can also check ONTransfer's database of agreements to see if your institution of interest offers a pathway within the province.

I have previously completed other postsecondary level studies, can I apply those credits towards a pathway?

Depending on the agreement and the residency requirements of the institution of interest you may be able to apply some of your previously earned credits in order to further reduce your degree completion time. Please consult with the institution of interest to determine if this is a possibility and if your credits are eligible for transfer.
