

Writing an Argument

You are going to work as a group to write your argument about there should be no Homework.

You will need to write in order and read what the people have written before you. You need to add on to what the person has said, do not repeat what the other have already said.

Person 1:Introduce the issue:We are Discussing the supporting reasons:

Ella:Firstly I disagree that there should be home

Tori:Secondly I disagree because we need some home learning and its good for our parents to know what we are learning. :)

Eli: I disagree that

At the end edit together and use these words to help you link your writing together therefore, so, because, if, means that, and, although, however.
