

Social Media posts to promote QuinkFair 2023

I'm excited for the start of QuinkFair, July 20th-24th in Central Virginia. It's a festival with all kinds of self exploration built in. Consider coming with me.

What if you could build a small festival that fuses the best parts of Burning Man and the Rainbow Gathering with a healthy dose of consent culture? I may have found such an event and am going to QuinkFair in late July, want to come?

We talk a bunch about trauma. But what about the opposite, where some specific event causes a lasting improvement or healing in your life? We don't even have a word for this experience. These festival organizers coined the term "quink" and built an event around it. I'm thinking about going to QuinkFair on July 20, want to join me?

I've never been to a big festival like Burning Man- they're pretty expensive, I don't have any of the stuff or skills I'd need to feed myself while camping, and it's hard to get there without a car. I'm so excited to go to QuinkFair as my first festival ever- it's only a few hours away by train, shared meals are provided, the cost is reasonable (and scholarships are available), and they'll even pick me up from the station!

QuinkFair is a transformative celebration which is seeking for and sparking the pivot points which can send you in a better or healing direction. Join us in central Virginia on July 20th . quink.fun

Who wants a festival with homework? Perhaps folks who are looking for something more than a good time for a weekend, people who are open to transformation
