INTRODUCTION (Times New Roman, size 12)

This section contains a description of the background of the problem being addressed, issues related to that problem, and a review of relevant prior research conducted by other scholars, supported by a pertinent literature review. References must follow the APA Style (6th edition), and the study should utilize in-text citations (body notes). (Times New Roman, size 12, spacing: 0 pt before and 0 pt after, line spacing: 1).

LITERATURE REVIEW (Times New Roman, size 12) (optional)

A literature review is a critical survey, summary, and synthesis of published scholarly sources on a specific research topic. Establish context: Position your research within the existing academic conversation. Provide a theoretical foundation: Support your study with established concepts and models. Identify research gaps: Highlight areas, questions, or debates that previous studies missed
