

Line Bingo

Line Bingo is a great alternative to traditional bingo and this game can be easily played while social distancing. To play this game, each student would need a set of word cards. You can make your own or you can download our many small flashcard sets from our flashcards page which are perfect for this game.

Give one set of cards to each student and ask them to arrange them in a horizontal line in any order they want. Then, the game can begin. The teacher should call out one of the cards and then the students should check their line of cards. If the card that the teacher called out is on either end of the line, then the student can turn that card over. If the card is in the middle of the line, the student can not turn it over. Next, the teacher would call out another card and the students would again check if they can turn it over or not. The first student to turn over all their cards is the winner.
