

One must know that my DB pictures take place in an alternate reality or timeline from Xenoverse.

In this reality the Time Patroller, Sideris, met Beerus through and, intrigued -and feeling bored-, went on a time mission with him. A mission against Janemba. Beerus found some interest in multiverse exploration afterward and notably to kill boredom. So he went on a solo mission himself and met some of his future Heralds.

The Heralds are characters Beerus gathered under his wing due to some personal interest for them, because they impressed him in a way or another or found potential in them even training some. while the Herald also joined him out of interest and accepted to be his retainers.

There are five of them, and all from alt reality : Imperfect Cell, Janemba, Bergamo, Babidi and Kushary (in that order), as well as Majin Buu as honorary members. So, here's who they are :

Durra Cell (Imperfect Cell)

-Cell was the first Herald and the most loyal. In his reality he was created to destroy but after a fateful encounter and first defeat by an adult Gohan, Cell found himself more interested in fighting strong opponents than destroying the world and after a revenge over Gohan he realised how fun it was to fight worthy challengers and sought for more. One after the other the most powerful fighters were non-lethally taken down and so he left Earth to go on a long quest to find other strong people in the universe. He did find some but beat them all as well (minus the gods he was oblivious of).

A year or so of mindless fighting gave him a sour taste as he realized how empty his life. As he was left with nothing much to do. He returned to Earth to find it attacked by aliens. With no one strong enough to face them due to Cell's previous fights, Cell thought it was his responsibility to defend his planet and did so. Being Earth defended gave him a pleasant feeling and a new objective as he slowly became a hero under the nickname of "Durra" even among other Earth's heroes.

It was as such that he met Beerus, or at least the one from another dimension. They fought each other and for the first time in years Durra was defeated but Beerus did recognize the force of Durra and offered to join him as retainer. He did accept and if they did have a master/servant relationship they did become closer to the point that Durra became the favorite of Beerus among the Heralds. Which is mutual, as Durra likes taking care of Beerus' most carnal pleasure as well as training under him.

Bergamo the Swordsaint of Hope

-Bergamo isn't much different than in the original timeline, beside being a master swordsman who has lost one eye in a previous fight and having his brothers long dead. Veteran fighter and top of his universe, he was selected to participate in the exhibition match for Zeno. Just like we knew it, if he wins then the universe won't be destroyed... and they never were as Bergamo won the exhibition match with enough panache to please Zeno. Already a hero in his universe, he became a legend after and was hired by Beerus who was present at the exhibition match. He offered Bergamo to form and make him stronger so that he could return with more power to defend his universe, as his hakaishin, Sidra, wouldn't have the right mind to train him.

Bergamo accepted and with him the Heralds took form.

Janemba (and Buu)

-Beerus met Janemba in a Time Patrol mission, and defeated him, helping Sideris the Time Patroller. Later, Beerus returned to this reality along with Durra and Buu (who he encountered during one of Bulma's parties that went into a fight between the two of them. But at the end ended up appreciating each other even if Buu refused to be an Herald and instead stays with Satan, tho still ok with having some occasional fun with Beerus). After a fight and some fun Janemba accepted to join the Heralds mostly out of lust for battle and some fun. Tho so far he remains the most unstable of the Heralds.

Babidi

-Babidi was a known powerful wizard who had control over people and demons' minds, an excellent magic user as well as powerful dark art practitioner due to a staff he has taken and sealed its owner inside, a demon known as Demigra that Babidi can summon and take power from. So when Janemba lost his mind under the lust and other factors, Beerus decided to go into the afterlife and bring back Babidi that he heard off through Whis : Babidi's mission ? Calm down Janemba through his mind control power, as Beerus wasn't really down to kill Janemba. Babidi accepted and joined the Heralds as a magic user would be a good addition for the team and he would no longer be in hell as long as he remains useful.

Kushary

-He is an odd case as he joined them uninvited. Actually, Kushary was sent by the Great Priest to investigate Beerus's activity after this one formed the Heralds and resuscitated Babidi. Kushary's job is known only by a few Gods of Destructions, such as Liquiiir, and Angels aside, even the Kaioshins don't know much about him. Which is part of the job. So, Beerus was unaware of who Kushary was when this one asked to join the Heralds, somewhat infiltrating them in becoming Beerus' retainers. Spending time with them allowed him to understand what Beerus was up to and what to report to the Great Priest after his mission was done. Until then he did enjoy his time with the Heralds.

Timeline of related NSFW pictures :

Beerus saw on Earth an advertisement for chew gum and was disappointed to not get any. On his way he then encountered Buu who looked like bubblegum and wondered if he tasted the same. He requested Buu to follow him and only accepted after Satan asked him to accept. Reluctantly Buu followed Beerus in space and Beerus explained to him his project. Buu refused so Beerus summoned destructive spheres threatening Earth and leaving Buu with no choice but to have Beerus have his way.

<http://rule34.paheal.net/post/view/1762292>

Beerus, interested to see Goku's past adversaries, virtually time traveled to see someone new to his Cell. That he analysed and found interesting. He thus traveled to another dimension and fought Cell -or rather Durra- with the wager that if he loses he will become his retainer. Durra accepted and lost, becoming the first Herald. Having to take care of Beerus' need and during a sexual one he challenged Durra to a "who ejaculated first win". Durra won.

<http://rule34.paheal.net/post/view/1881133>

And as a reward Beerus decided to train him in fight, and in other ways.

<http://rule34.paheal.net/post/view/2696228>

Having defeated Janemba in the past, Beerus decided to hire him and with a team composed of Durra and Buu tracked his dimension back. There they find two Janemba and after a fight that has left Janemba driven by lust, he offers a way to relieve him. Of course Beerus didn't plan to be bottomed, so as Buu was an indestructible demon he thought that he'll be the perfect partner to satisfy their new ally,

<http://rule34.paheal.net/post/view/2119864>

Buu has been asked to join in the quest for Janemba as a way to team-build Durra and Buu and see how they work in a team in case of need. Janemba having joined the team, Beerus honored his deal tho not without having some extra fun before Buu's departure.

<http://rule34.paheal.net/post/view/2696229>

Beerus profited the same way to make some more team-bonding with Janemba and Durra, as well as curious to see how his retainer handled a fierce demon.

<http://rule34.paheal.net/post/view/2121647>

<http://rule34.paheal.net/post/view/2487446>

At the end of a battle royal among the Hakaishin that was organized by the Zeno to test the fighting area. Quieta offered Liquir a deal : he's got his revenge on his rival Beerus, and in return Liquir can pick one of Quitela's fighters. Waiting for everyone to leave, Quitela offered a private fight to Beerus and he agreed to settle his score with the moose. Oblivious of the deal, Beerus was surprised by Liquir's intervention, leaving him open for a good old tag.

<http://rule34.paheal.net/post/view/2487928>

And even more when Moscow returned to check for Beerus and saw him ganged. Remembering the 50 years hide-and-seek accident, he was more than delighted by the sight and offered Liquir some help to have his turn with Beerus when Quitela finished.

<http://rule34.paheal.net/post/view/2567324>

Despite his earlier rapes, Beerus didn't waste time and continued training the Heralds and with Janemba, Durra and Bergamo in his team, the Tournament of Power went differently. If thanks to Bergamo, the universes won't be destroyed, the ToP was still planned but the winner was Dyspo who became an hakaishi with the Super dragon balls' wish.

<https://e621.net/posts/2040197>

As a new Hakaishin he was welcomed by the other gods... in their way. but that was also a means to test his abilities as the fastest Hakaishin ever.

<https://e621.net/posts/2025280>

Later after Liquir's returned home, he received a call from Quietla who asked him to join his hakaishin realm. There the fox met Quietla who decided to honor their previous deal : picking one of his fighter. Majora was the one who really caught Liquir's attention and took him in his universe. Majora for his part didn't mind much serving another god.

<http://rule34.paheal.net/post/view/2567323>

Dyspo caught Beerus' interest. And notably that variant of Ultra Instinct Dyspo has developed. the Zettai Shinsoku/Absolute Divine Speed. wanting to get some intel about this skill, he offered the Dyspo to do some demonstration. As impressive as that show has been, Beerus didn't think much about it... unlike Liquir who did find an interest in Dyspo and his skill and proposed the two purple-furred GODS to hang out with him and form a team or alliance. Even if neither Beerus or Dyspo could have imagined that the three-tailed Fox was resourceful enough to manage them forming such a pact and renew Beerus' interest for the Absolute Divine Speed, especially in such a way...

<https://e621.net/posts/2167582>