

Source 1: Jennings, Matthew. "Navajo." Encyclopedia of Native American History, Volume 2, Facts On File, 2011. American Indian History, online.infobase.com/Auth/Index?aid=17241&itemid=WE43&articleId=358731. Accessed 23 Feb. 2021.

<https://online.infobase.com/Auth/Index?aid=17241&itemid=WE43&articleId=358731>

After first skimming through the source that examines the tribe generally, develop a list of five important categories that help you to understand this tribe better and relate to their culture. Be sure to write the category next to each of the rows (Example: Category 1: family life, Category 2: religion, etc.).

Directions: Take notes on each of these five categories you have picked in the table below. Your notes should be in complete sentences. You should have four to five sentences per category.

Category 1: Topic Name
Category 2: Topic Name
Category 3: Topic Name
Category 4: Topic Name
Category 5: Topic Name

Source 2: Record MLA Citation

Each of the tribes came into contact with Americans that often pushed them out of their land, or fought with them for resources. Take notes from the second source on what interactions this tribe had with whites. When a policy (treaty, relocation agreement, etc.) was employed, consider whether it was appropriate, necessary, and/or effective.

Be sure that you are including details about these events, names of chiefs/leaders for the United States, sequences of events, attempts at resistance by Native Americans and the response from the United States,etc. Be sure to rephrase these into your own summary of the events. You may take a few select quotes that you believe helps us to understand the situation better. Be sure to put these in direct quotes if you are using something word for word.

Take notes in the table below: (You should be writing in complete sentences and your responses should be 1-2 paragraphs for each section. In order to create an informative vennngage you must take detailed notes.)

Interaction with whites (positive and negative):
Policies that were employed such as treaties, agreements, compromises, etc.

Evaluation of these policies. Were they appropriate? Necessary? Effective?

What do you think could have been done instead to have a solution that would work better for Native Americans and/or white Americans?