How come whenever I actually need to focus and get something done, I can never concentrate and always feel the need to reach for my phone?

How come whenever I try to sit down and write I always fail at coming up with creative and inspiring work?

As an author, my income is solely dependent on how creative and influential my writing is.

Hundreds and thousands of hours of work can all be put in on one single bit of writing.

Writing takes time.

Writing takes thought.

Writing takes careful examination and tedious work.

But what really rewards the diligent writer is the satisfaction of knowing that what you created inspires other people down to their core.

As a writer, I take Quail because it enhances the 4 Ms.
