

Should I never come back home
Let my name echo through eternity.
All the souls forgotten
In the tainted wasteland of deception and lies.

Sins of the past brought upon our decaying lives and lands,
No better tomorrow ahead all is lost so give up the fight.
Let the hatred overcome.
It's high time to go back home.
In the lands of wealth, flowery meadows invite for redemption,
But nobody's good enough

Should I never come back home
Let my name echo through eternity.
All the souls forgotten
In the tainted wasteland of deception and lies.

You and I we can save the world too, but no heroes live to see the freedom.
Dying inside to rescue them all, to give one's life for the undeserving cries
Let the hatred overcome.
It's high time to just let go.
In the scorch of the pain, searing hell invites you to be complete
And you all deserve it now.

Should I never come back home
Let my name echo through eternity.
All the souls forgotten
In the tainted wasteland of deception and lies.

And we have nowhere to stay,
Cannot pretend everything's gonna be okay.
When the sky falls down and the sea rises and fades like the hope of our wasted youth.
We have nowhere to stay,
Cannot pretend anymore that everything's going to be...
Okay
