

Momo - Chaos Gremlin Manager and Sweet friend

First Impressions

Honestly, I can't exactly remember how I came across momo initially. I think it was during a raid by Redclaw or another vtuber but I just lurked and checked out the monstrous lady. Oh boy, what a gremlin she was and I loved it. I was already becoming friends with foamy at this time so finding the other chaos gremlin was very fun and exciting.

I mean, who wouldn't love a shit eating grin looking beast like her? I was mostly a lurker at this point and rarely spoke in her chat. But I would begin to have my first interactions with her properly once I applied for redclaw's mod team.

Redclaw Moderating

I still remember when I would get taken into the mod team. I would come to hang out in a Redclaw stream, just to vibe and see how things were if I got accepted. Little did I know, I would suddenly get 'stabbed' by Redclaw, being given a mod role right there on stream, during a hype train. From this, Momo would ask if I could join a call to get a briefing of what she wanted from a moderator and the like. Most was covered by me moderating from Vexoria and Foamy was also a mod for Redclaw as well, so I feel like he vouched for me on this too. It wasn't that long of a call and was very informally, making it quite comfortable.

I would begin to get to know the moderator team and throw in my own opinions to moderation duties (obviously won't say what but you get the idea). I would end up volunteering to do the schedules for Redclaw and I'd do my best to stay on top of that, swinging by streams as much as I could but this was during Vex's break before 2.0 so I would be getting busy once more. But getting to know the team, I would get to know momo more too, even getting comfortable chatting in her stream chat more as well.

Direct Contact with Momo

I would start to occasionally chat with Momo, usually about things in Redclaw's side of things but would have the odd chuckle or talk of cool Vtubers (usually MillaNoire). From my birthday in July, our interactions in DM's would get a bit longer and more frequent but still very work colleagues levels and I never like to assume friendships until the other specifics it. Even though she would go around all the servers I was in to disclose my birthday to others, which I never made super public as I never like to draw attention to myself in other servers unless it relates to said streamer in the server. I also had asked for help in regards to networking at vexpo in the future, which proved very helpful. Hell, her shoutout during a stream of hers got me half of the followers I do now on twitch so if anything, she aided in my follower goal being hit by my personal deadline.

I would even sign her kudoboard for her own birthday, as it was in the same month as mine and I wanted to be nice and honest in it. I expressed how amazing she was as a manager and I hoped to become closer to her.

Then sadly, my second family death would occur only 4 months after my gran passed away. It was hitting me hard and of all the people to reach out to check if I was ok...Momo was one of them.

I am so sorry Dagniels. It's hard lossing any family member. Sending you hugs and good vibes and sending love to you and your family

This meant alot, as someone who I only knew for work related things and the odd casual chit-chat. I rarely have many people reach out to me during these kinds of times, mainly because I keep them to myself unless it will affect work or plans. But having her speak these kind words, oddly enough, lead to much longer chats and slowly, I would feel we become friends from this. It was nice to talk during my downtimes or as I worked on personal projects. I began to share a lot of my vtubing stuff with her, such as new ideas, art I got, even this uplifting google doc series.

Debut

I would attend her new model debut and (absolutely not go feral for it and die abit, of course not!) enjoy the time there! The model by Fairbanks was amazing and the sassy fan toggle is 'a slay' as the kids would say. This was also during her birthday where she read her kudoboard, I would drop 50 gift subs and Foamy would finish funding her TwitchCon trip, which did cause happy cries but hey, it was expected from us chaos gremlins.

We would interact often as I mentioned above, which would lead to a big thing for me. I was invited to her charity event, which I felt very honoured by. I also felt it very fitting as my last family member to pass was very big into charity and I wanted to help raise money in her honour as well.

Charity Event

This would be an amazing event with alot of funds raised. I would even stay up until around 3/4am to play quiplash, chat and goof around. This was a nice change for me and to interact with so many other content creators that I watched, knew of and got to know, was fantastic. I enjoyed it all, the games were hilarious, with me and foamy sharing the same brain cell often. This helped get me out of my shell ALOT with other vtubers so thank you as well Momo, for helping me reach out to other wonderful people and not be so scared. I was so happy with how much money got raised and how happy Momo was during the whole event. I was very proud of her achievement with it and I hope for more to come.

Verdict

Not a super long one (might add onto it as I remember more things out of my sickness haze) but overall?

Momo is an upstanding, morally right woman. She is a fellow history buff, an enjoyer of yapping and ADHD side-questing, which I always got behind! She is gorgeous both IRL and in her models but also beautiful on the inside. She is highly intelligent and so compassionate, so empathetic and so kind. An amazing manager to boot as well, with so much on her plate but still able to juggle a full time job, her own streaming, moderating and managing for several vtubers. How does she do it? I have no idea but I dream and strive to be as good as her someday. She gave me the drive to improve on my own moderating skills more and aided me in such by observing her, learning from her and interacting with her.

I will always support, stand with and protect this woman. I will repay the kindness she gives to others to the best of my abilities. She deserves so much in this world and I will always wish the best for her. If anything is to come from this, I want Momo to be in her dream job, going on her dream trips and truly, living her dreams to the fullest, because that is what she deserves and should have.

Lots of love to you, Momo. I consider you a dear friend, a wonderful work colleague and a shining example of a morally upstanding vtuber in this sea of content.