DESCRIPTION. Kwan is known for his tall and lean physique, standing at about 6 feet 2 inches. He has a sonic and handsome face, paired with his fair skin and soft, yet sharp features. He has a balanced build, with broad shoulders and an athletic frame, which is complemented by his stylish fashion choices, adding to his overall charismatic presence.

PERSONALITY

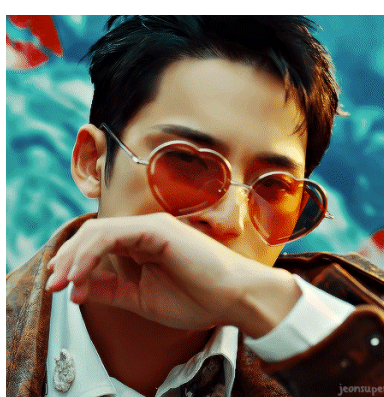

DESCRIPTION. He's always been a bit off according to his mother, always a little bit too unfeeling and unwilling to love, a little too good at pretending he cared about those around him. However, Kwan isn't an evil man, he can actually be quite charming when need be, he just lacks the compassion and emotions that most people do. He was crafted by his parents to be the family successor which means he understands what strings he needs to pull to gain somebody's trust. It's not that he wants to hurt people, he just can't seem to care whether he does or not. Staying on Kwan's good side would be preferable as once you've crossed the line, whatever little benevolence he does hold doesn't disappear so easily. He has the tendency to become a little too obsessed with the people he deems good enough for him, Kwan can and will manipulate said people to ensure they can't see anything or anyone but him. Often love-bombing them until suffocation, but don't worry, Kwan won't let them go too far away from him.
