

My Statement Regarding MintMidori:

Created, May 18th 2023. Final Revision, December 31st, 2024

This document was made, to bring light to the situation that has escalated and gone on for far too long. I'm tired, and just want things to end. This was made so that everyone is made aware of the situation, and to be cautious of MintMidori.

Please forgive the length of the document, let alone the layout of it, as this is all new to me and I never wanted things to get this far to where I had to make a document.

(I will state this twice, once at the beginning and once at the end.)

(PLEASE! DO NOT attack or harass Mint or his friends, family, or anyone involved with him.)

(My explanation.)

Despite my multiple apologies, & conversations with said person, he will not cooperate nor listen. I've tried to reason with him, work things out and tried to even be friends, but we just never talked after what happened, so I figured it was best to stay out of each other's lives again. (He used to be my partner of 7 years.)

This all started when I felt I needed to cut ties from the relationship. I could no longer handle the constant arguments and fights over little things, it took a toll on me and my mental health, so I did what I thought was best for me. I had left when we had an argument over a creator, I realized it was just too much on me, and I felt like I was just hurting him as well back then. I felt it would've been better for the both of us if we went our own separate ways.

I tried my best to end it on good terms, did my best to communicate, and I had thought it had ended on good terms. Even despite them saying, it was going to cause them a lot of trauma, and for them to 'never love again'. We were both young at the time those years ago, so younger couples in general still learn how to go about relationships and deal with them. Right as I had ended things, I said: "I'm sorry, I think this would be the best for both of us." However, they thought it was wrong.

After we went our separate ways, the situation has never stopped since then.

I am still dealing with it to this very day.

He has made violent threats, continues to harass me, and threatened to leak personal information of me, from things that were previously handled multiple times. All of this is because of our past relationship, mentioned before where BOTH sides were unhealthy. I have admitted to my mistakes time and time again to him on text, phone call, as well as VRChat.

No matter what I've said, and no matter how many times I've attempted to reconcile and apologize, he just won't listen. He will interrupt me, or will laugh at me, and refuse to cooperate. The closest I've got for him to cooperate was during our talk on VRChat last year.

This didn't end well, and he still ended up not listening to me.

I had also apologized to someone for him, who was CONFIRMED to be a pedophile in the Sonic VRChat community, because he wanted me to "forgive" them. They are still associated with this person. He blames not just myself, but the Sonic VRChat community, and the Sonic VA community for turning them away.

Alongside this, I have come to figure out from outside sources, regarding the individual confirmed to be a pedophile earlier in the document that I apologized to had their death faked at one point by MintMidori to keep him out of trouble after being confronted.

Even after following his demands, he still will not leave me be, and this is beyond harassment at this point. He has threatened to send people to my old address they knew, and has threatened to involve my family, among numerous other violent threats.

I feel like my life could be in potential danger, and if I have to,
I will do my best to get the authorities involved.
I don't want to, but I will if I have to.

I hate that I felt like I had to be quiet about this for so long.

I am tired, and just want this to be over.

It's been years, and I just want to live my life happily.

I have multiple witnesses, & screenshots of his behavior. I will provide said screenshots below with phone numbers and usernames removed to protect both parties' privacy. As I mentioned, I DO NOT want any war to come of this, but he apparently wants one. It's really not necessary or needed.

I don't plan on giving him that, but I am tired of hiding from him.

I feel like he was personally blackmailing me in the screenshots provided in the link below, (basically if I didn't say anything about him), he wouldn't post a document about me.

(Link Here) Before Confronting Mint on VRChat

Stated previously above at the beginning of the document, he would not cooperate nor listen when I tried to reconcile. I've tried to reason with him, tried to even be friends, while yes we did agree to it, we just didn't talk at all after the conversation.

Not to mention he refused to listen to my statement completely and we ended up going off topic a few times in the confrontation in VRChat. Where I tried to reason with him as he was crying over our past relationship. I genuinely did feel bad and wanted to try to make it up, so instead of trying to finish the statement my current partner helped me type to help me communicate better, I suggested staying friends on VRChat.

While I don't have proof or anything regarding the conversation I had with Mint on VRChat, I do have the statement originally typed by my partner, a friend of mine, and I.

(Link Here) A Typed Out Confrontation

When I went into the same instance as him in VRChat, he had a panic attack when he knew I was there. Not to mention, his partner had asked for me to stay in my own lane. So I figured him and his partner just wanted to focus on their own life, and I decided to focus on mine. So I unfriended him and figured it was for the best, and that it would be the end of it.

After he found out I unfriended him, he messaged me on my phone, asking if we were going to "Go to war", coming off as threatening. First he blackmailed me by staying friends, and not speaking out about how I felt, or else he would post the document about me.

This caused me to become fearful, and to attempt to de-escalate the situation before it got worse. He assumed I had spies when I was telling some close friends I trusted about my situation, I wanted to feel safe and confide in someone.

(Link Here) After Unfriending Mint on VRChat \("Staying in my Lane."\)

It doesn't seem like I have a right to state my side of our relationship in the slightest, that it would be a lie, or that I'm making things up just to make him look bad.

But he is apparently allowed to publicly post about me on social media, about his side of things, when I'm not. It doesn't seem fair at all in the slightest.

I'm tired of him feeling like he has power over me, he has stated multiple times that he wants me to suffer, and to not stay on the internet. I feel like he wants me to keep from sharing my story, when he can easily share his side to others, and has pressured a friend to block myself and my partner, otherwise he would consider that friend a "traitor" or "untrustworthy".

This friend of mine had come to me and my partner bawling their eyes out, feeling guilty that they had been pressured into removing/blocking us. They told us that they were scared of what Mint would do to them.

I don't like the fact that Mint is inflicting fear onto others over me.

I don't like the fact that Mint is trying to force people that I'm friends with to unfriend and/or block me, just so Mint will keep them as friends.

That's NOT what friends do. Friends don't inflict fear, friends don't force you to choose over people. It's not okay.

Keep in mind, this has happened with other things, not just relationship problems. I've seen that any time he sees someone as untrustworthy or if they've wronged him in any way. He will try to get anybody he can in his group or people he follows to report, block, or unfriend that person.

I have seen this behavior even back when we were in a relationship.

This is all over something that could've been settled years ago, and SHOULD have been settled years ago.

However, he chose to continue to spread misinformation about myself, warning others about me saying that I am a terrible person, that I'll never change. Alongside stating to friends not to trust me, and that I would cheat on my current partner.

This was due to the fact of having been in a polyamorous relationship after him, and before my current partner. I was open to trying new things and had got tired of it eventually after waiting so long just to try to make things official.

(This is nothing against my previous partner before that, and I wish her nothing but the best.)

However, I wish that Mint would've listened to me the many times I had apologized back last year.

(How my recent troubles began. April 31st, 2023.)

I was found on a friend of mine's livestream on YouTube, by Mint, active on the internet. After previous claims I had made YEARS ago that I wouldn't really get back on much after we broke up. Unfortunately, that led him into a panic attack trying to get me to "leave the internet" by spreading my old name at the time on the internet.

This led me to be fearful due to past worries of experiences with him I've mentioned prior. I had confronted him in front of my friends on a voice call so I had witnesses know that I was not only letting one side of the story be shown.

Not only did the conversation not go well, but he continued to deadname me, alongside stating that he wanted "my blood on a platter".

Mint, I'm really tired and just done. I'm tired of the violent threats, I'm tired of you spreading my name in a negative light, and I'm tired of you not leaving me alone.

Please, just focus on you and your partner, I'm sure they want to focus on you and only you.

I'm sure they're tired hearing and thinking about me too, I don't know how often you talk to them about me, but I'm sure it annoys them and makes them uncomfortable. It's not healthy to drag something on like this for so many years, even after I've tried reconciling and apologizing, like mentioned before numerous times.

It's been 5 years you've talked about this, and you've been dragging this on long enough. You won't talk to me civilly like an adult. So I'm done. I want to rest, and just live my life happily.

(The Aftermath)

Mint has continued since then to spread misinformation about me since this confrontation before the document.

I've even come out myself and have stated that I did do wrong in my past, and I do not expect any forgiveness from ANYONE who I have hurt with my previous actions when I was younger. In the end, as I mentioned before, I just want to move on.

The screenshots in this link provide evidence that he continues to spread and talk about me publicly in a negative light on his Twitter/X, while I have not said a single word regarding him.

(Link Here) Twitter Screenshots

In the end, he states that I am hiding the truth from people while I clearly am not, and will never hide who I used to be.

(The Response: After My Statement Was Shared)

After posting this document, he had proceeded to harass and “defend” themselves under different accounts on Twitter including a Sonic roleplaying account, as well as releasing his own document, he has stated a lie about me sexually assaulting them as a minor (When they were older than me, yet I will never once say that I groomed him or that he groomed me.) as well as stating that I was lying about my age in said document. Alongside this, also using the footage from our confrontation on VRChat which once again was RECORDED WITHOUT CONSENT! (This video is still up by the way.)

I may have lied about my age when I was younger, and I genuinely don't remember if I did or not. As I mentioned, I was stupid and toxic when I was younger, but the actions of the past do not reflect who I am now as a person. And I claim full responsibility and accountability for any "racist" comments and things I may have made to anybody claiming to be a victim of me when I was younger and I apologize wholeheartedly. In the end, I am letting every bit of truth out as much as I can and addressing anything I can alongside just stating my side.

(My Final Statement.)

I wasn't the best at relationships in the past. I said and did a lot of stupid things. We argued a lot over stupid things, but I never once laid a hand on him physically. Our relationship was built on 7 years of mostly Skype calls, and I don't regret it in the slightest!

What I do regret however, is the arguing on my part. And the arguing on his part. Neither of us are innocent in this, however, I am tired of him only telling a one sided story with the way he has acted toward me when I have done nothing except try to be nice to him.

I have tried to be the better individual by keeping my distance, and that apparently means I have people spying on him. I will state the single thing I have stated to anyone I am friends with, that interacts with him.

"I don't mind if you're friends with him, just please leave me out of it."

That's it, just a personal preference, and the only negative thing I've mentioned.

This is the last time I will ever give this any hold over my life. I don't want any legal action involved, and I don't want to leave the internet out of fear from my ex simply calling me the "abusive ex who refuses to change."

When he clearly refuses to do it himself, continues to stalk my social media to this very day, and continues to go on about a previous relationship from years ago while MARRIED.

This is over, and I am finally moving on.

This is NOT nor ever will be a call to attack or harass any individual whether it be in this document, or the document presented from 2020 below. This information is just here to have others be aware of Mint's other behaviors. Please leave ALL participants mentioned alone, including Mint.

(Additional Proof and Allegations Regarding MintMidori's Behavior)

I would also like to mention and bring this to light, while this has no relevance to MY experience with Mint, I've come to learn about another document. This is in regards to Mint involving himself in predatory behavior. Below is documented proof of the individual having sexual relations with a minor in 2020. He used to go by CyberKnights, and PinkkCosmic, now having the current name MintMidori, (goes by @MintMidori on Twitter).

Keep in mind, this document is not mine. I am not responsible for what is shown in this one, I am only sharing what myself and my partner had found. Alongside this, permission has been given to post this document from SnukVA. (Thank you for sharing your experience with me.)

Also keep in mind, this has nothing to do with my experience with him. I am simply spreading awareness of events that occurred not long after we had left each other.

(Link Here) My Experience With CyberKnights

My Final Statement, cont.

Consider this portion of the document an addition to the original final statement before the Snuk doc.

With my final words, I'll state this. I will always strive to change for the better.

However, if he can't believe that I can change, or chooses not to and instead decides to fill people's heads with slander of sexual assault, then why should I bother to believe that he has changed himself and continues to be a toxic individual alongside a predatory individual like in Snuk's document.

In the end, this is my final statement on the matter as I've said before multiple times on social media. Judge from both sides instead of just one. If you don't believe me, that is fine. If you hate me, that is fine.

Being on my side and believing me is not the reason or goal on why I wrote this document in the first place.

It was to finally spread my experience with this toxic individual, and to account and make up for my own mistakes as well in the past under the KingBlade35 moniker. Which I had apologized for on several occasions and continue to do so.

As I stated in that final statement, I am moving on. From KingBlade35/TerrabyteArts, from MintMidori, from MansionMaster, from all of my past. Not to hide it, but to be better than it. Especially now, going into the new year as I write this final part on December 31st, 2024 as I am typing this. Hence why I am considering this my final revision to my document.

I just want to relax and be normal again. I hope I can get that chance to not live in constant panic and worry.

This is a final statement as a whole as a self-reflection of things that have happened since then and it will not be updated any further.

Once again, for those who do understand my experience, thank you for reading.

I'll see you later, everyone.

-Damien S. / SimitarchVOs

(KingBlade35/TerrabyteArts formerly.)