2025 Seattle Special Education PTSA Legislative Priorities

Inclusionary Practices

- Acceptance of disability as part of everyday life - Implementation of inclusive practices including Universal Design for Learning, accessibility of instruction, learning environment, improving racial, disability, and LGBTQ+ diversity of educator workforce
- Fully funding basic education and removing the 16% student enrollment special education funding cap to meet the true needs of students in Washington State
- Update the state expectations for preservice teachers to include special education required courses that incorporate a disability justice lens, for all teachers
- Certified educators prepared to support students with disabilities as part of their preservice and include instruction on the social model of disability
- Simplifying the safety net reimbursement process to school districts.
- Staff retention, including competitive and rewarding benefits
- Smaller class sizes and caseloads for special education service providers to ensure the quality and effectiveness of services

Addressing the Student Mental Health Crisis

- Trauma-informed practices - addressing discipline practices that disproportionately impact BIPOC and disabled students.
- Access to mental health services for students with disabilities and their families, providing wraparound support and resources.
- Diversifying Behavioral Health workforce in schools around race, disability, and LGBTQ+ status
- End Isolation and chemical and mechanical restraint in Washington schools

Appropriate and Timely Identification of Students with Disabilities

- Focus on BIPOC, Twice Exceptional (2e), highly mobile, low-income, multilingual students, and particularly those affected by the intersection of two or more factors
- Racial and gender analysis of special education programs to ensure that groups are not being over or under-identified for specific support needs
- Quality Independent Educational Evaluations to avoid conflict of interest and bias
