Hello, I am Danil, a Russian born and raised in Busan, South Korea. Long story short: I was born here, went to Korean kindergarten, then went to Korean elementary school till 3rd grade. After that I went to a Russian school that was located here in Busan, on Choryang station. I was attending that school until corona virus happened and the school had to shut down. That's when I moved to Russia, Vladivostok at the age of 15. I graduated school there and came back here. Now attending university and studying Business Administration in Korean. The reason I decided to study in Korean and not English is... I guess I like challenging myself. Also, while living in Russia and not using Korean language at all, I almost forgot it all. And studying in Korean would help me learn and practice my Korean more.

Hello, I am Jaegeun Go. I am from Geoje, South Korea. I am 24 years old. I am a senior at Kyungshin University. This is my last semester. I am studying hospitality and food management. Back in the day, I used to like cooking. So, I chose this major. But I am more interested in learning languages and working abroad recently. I can speak 3 languages: Korean, English and French. I am still working on learning English and French. I have worked at the hotel in Vietnam as an intern for 6 months 3 years ago. This experience was helpful to grow cultural awareness. Then, I decided to work abroad. I like to watch Netflix and travel. Also, I like to learn about new cultures. So, I chose this class to improve my writing skill and tips for working abroad.

Hello, I'm Yeongju Son. I'm studying accounting, and I have a thought about working abroad after graduating. I'm going to study business English and some extra accounting in English. So, I thought I had to improve my English skills and get as much English exposure as possible. My English is not good now, but I want to improve this semester through this class and more effort. And also I want to learn to write formally. In my opinion, I've been speaking and writing English informally.
