

“Vilicus’s Overseer Lapel Pins”

Vilicus is a big fan of the Overseer series because his name translated to Latin means overseer but barely saw many of the Overseer series items in trading and market places and when he did the price and trade was ridiculous.

One day...In a random marketplace, Vilicus saw a booth selling 1 pack (5 pins per each pack) of fake Overseer Lapel pins for 10R.

Since they were cheap enough...Vilicus decides to buy one of the packs.

While Vilicus wore the pins his vision suddenly went better to the point where he didn't even need glasses anymore and his awareness too to the point that he could sense when something was going to hit him.

But nonetheless he thought it was just silly as how could these life altering changes be connected to a bunch of pins.

Over time, the pins become dull in colour except for one...

The one front of the fur ring.

Facts & Notes:

Vilicus is a really good trader.

There's only one set of all of the real items from the Overseer series, the rest are fake.

All of the real Overseer series can boost awareness and sight of the weary.

All of the real Overseer series are harmless and cannot harm the weary by itself.

Vilicus manages to buy the Overseer bow at a fair price later on.