

Crystal's Webpage on Diversity

<https://sites.google.com/a/onalaskaschools.com/nh-lmc/home/diversity-resources>

See The Danger of a Single Story if you have a chance

American Indians in Children's Lit

<http://americanindiansinchildrensliterature.blogspot.com/> - very helpful!

richincolor.com - ya lit reviews

"I love you" video with indigenous languages - great for Valentine's Day

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Zvt4Eba_EJM

Lee & Low - good resource for diverse lit

Hmong ABC - in St. Paul and online for Hmong resources

CBC Diversity has an e-newsletter along with a Tumblr page

For diverse ya & esp. LGBT resources - Diversity in YA

Common Core encourages teaching students to look at literature critically - opportunity to teach them to ask whose perspective is this written from? Whose voice is missing? Is there bias? Are there stereotypes? (example Heart and Soul by Kadir Nelson written because the African American perspective is not always found in U.S. history books)

Best Multicultural Titles of 2013 from Center for Study of Multicultural Children's Lit (includes YA)

My favorite diverse ya titles of 2013

Overall favorites from 2013 - many great diverse titles

Contact me at brucr@onalaskaschools.com or as @Librarygrl2 on Twitter