

provide

a resource for your neighbours

The above one is not particularly eco-friendly (a supply of plastic shopping bags for putting your dog shits in) but it does show care and attachment for a certain place and community of use.

The below “clay invitation” offers balls of clay gathered from a collapsing cliff along the beach to passers-by and interested parties who are interested enough to make a trip to my (mum’s) berm.

