

Knightmare

In this world, where our technology is growing at a rapid speed, we thought of creating some futuristic thing. When we say future, Robots are the very thing that flash across our minds. With this ideology, we began our research. We began to think about what we can do and came to the idea of creating a marketplace for robots, and hence we founded our imaginary company Knightmare, founded in 2110. In the year 2151, we created a robot model named Atom, designed to protect its host.

About our website:

Home Page-

We firstly take you to the stunning Home page which is efficiently designed by our optimistic team. Our home page starts with the sleek navigation bar which includes our project's name And it's the well-designed theme and attractive logo. Adjacent to it we have our buttons that link you to our appealing home and about the web page. We have also added a cart section in our navigation bar through which you can directly access the products in our cart and order it right away. You can find the "Book a call" button just next to the cart section which allows our customers to reach us with any of their queries.

Following the navigation bar, we have our tagline "Let me fight for you!". You can also find the "Stalk Me" button just below which lets you explore our newly launched robot "Atom".
