Name: Moshi
Age: 17-22
Sex: Female
Occupation: Superhero
DOB: Unknown
Residence: Unknown

Personality: She's a realist and is down to earth. She assists the team with anything she can, and is always putting her best effort in. She seems to lack experience, but is still a great asset to our community, even if she is a bit on the quieter side.

Powers:

Moshi appears to have 3 different sets of "powers". She has healing capabilities, plant manipulation, and traits corresponding to her animal adaptation. She represents the element of 'Earth', and her powers are related to this.

Plant Abilities:

Moshi has the ability to spawn, grow, and manipulate plants. She can create foliage out of virtually nothing, but gets a "buff" when already surrounded by such. She often creates weapons out of vegetation, such as her notable vine bow and bamboo sword.

Panda Capabilities:

Moshi, just like the other heroes, has animal traits corresponding to her "spirit animal". A panda, as each Earth element documented has been, has a set list of special capabilities.

Enhanced Hearing, Retractable Claws, Vertical Slit Pupils, Fangs, Increased Hunger, and Better climbing abilities.

Healing:

Moshi has healing capabilities due to the correspondence of nature and its ability to bring serenity. To activate her healing powers, she must give something a kiss. To avoid directly kissing people, she gives her hand a kiss and places it directly on whomever she is trying to heal. This works on an energy consumption basis. Meaning, the more injured her or the person she is trying to heal is, the less impactful it will be. This magical ability is unable to return people from the dead, and is unable to bring one's body completely back to its original state before their injury occurred. It simply speeds up the process.

Additional Information:

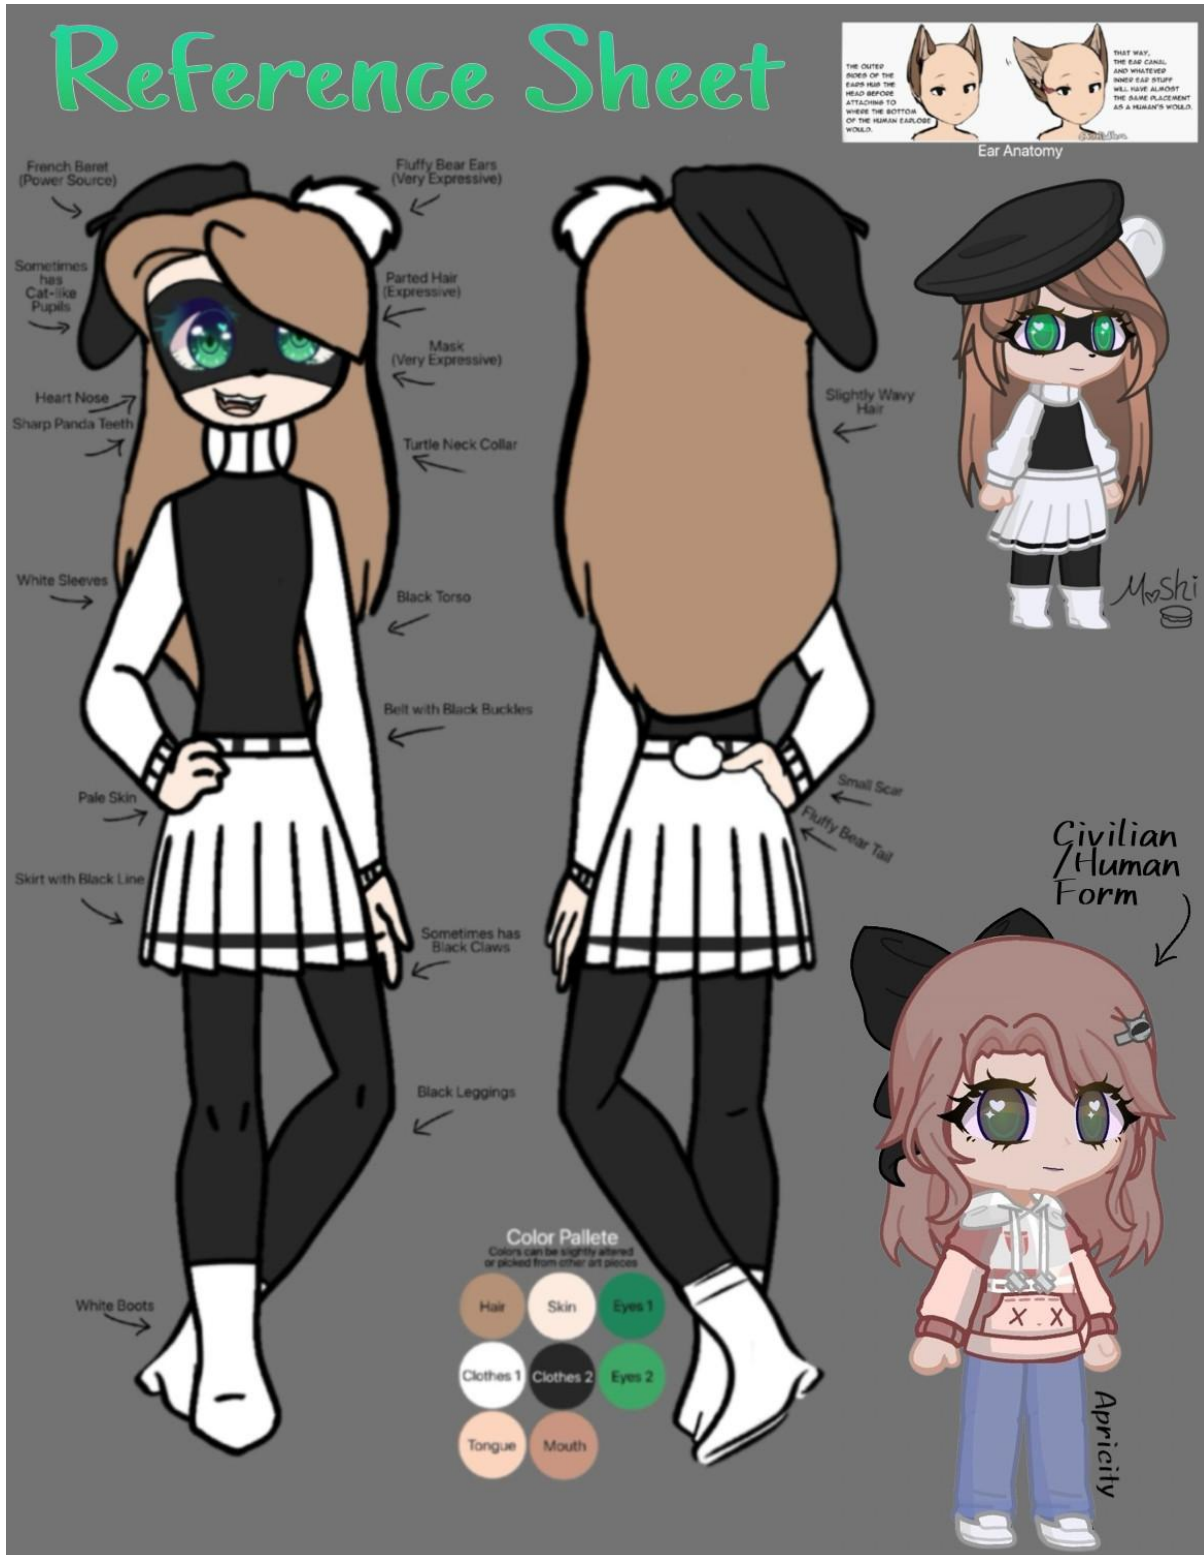

Her favorite foods are sweets, specifically mochi and macarons. She is currently attending school, but it's unclear if this is college or highschool. Her favorite animal is a raccoon, and she has described herself as a creative person.

Apricity Xanadu is a 17 year old girl that works at her parent's bakery. Her birthday is on May 17th, and she lives in the Petrichor district. One evening while walking through town on her lonesome, she sees a strange boy place a beret down. Curious, Apricity walks over and picks it up. She finds it cute, so she places it in her bag and continues on with her walk. After getting home she tries it on. She magically transforms into Moshi upon wearing it and has a total meltdown. Fastforward, and Apricity now doubles as a hero and a college student (aging in the process), still assisting her parent's bakery when applicable. Apricity struggles with low self esteem and often refers to herself as a racoon, meaning it in the sense that she's the trash version of her panda self. She often uses Moshi as an escape from her day-to-day struggles, but this doesn't always work. She's always been an escapist, even as a kid. The idea of running away to a fictional world was always fascinating to her, and she became very interested in books, television, cartoons, and media as a whole. As such, she's a creative person and loves to craft and paint. Apricity is down to earth, kind hearted, a realist (though can be swayed one way or the other depending on her mood), and she can be rather clumsy. She spends a lot of time on her own, but she isn't opposed to hanging out with others, and will openly talk as long as she is approached first. She has a bit of a sharp tongue at times, and is always quick to stand up for what's right. She takes things personally and deeply. While she is usually a very logical person, when her emotions take control she can get carried away. Her favorite foods are sweets, and she really enjoys working at the bakery, even if it can be hard work and sometimes a lot of pressure. Her favorite role while working there is putting pastries on display, but she also enjoys baking. Apricity enjoys spending time with nature, especially by a pond or just after it has rained.
