

NBA Senior Criticizes James

Michael Cooper (67) from the Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association (NBA) scolded LeBron James (38), the best star and team junior.

NBA star James sat on the bench and ate a fruit salad during an exhibition game on the 14th. James played 18 minutes in the first half of the exhibition game against the Golden State Warriors and did not play in the second half. However, during the second half, I ate a fruit salad in a lunch box on the bench.

According to USA Today on the 19th, Cooper pointed out, "Even LeBron James should respect the game," adding, "If you want to eat something, you should go to the locker room and eat it, and then come back to the court to be a part of the team." 스포츠투투

Cooper played for the Lakers from 1978 to 1990. Cooper never left the Lakers in 12 seasons and enjoyed five championships. James is an NBA superstar. He holds the record for the most points in the NBA history and continues to break the record.
